

2002 WORLD SERIES CHAMPIONS

Anaheim ANGELS

SPECIAL COLLECTOR'S EDITION

Baseball's Best:
The Angels
Fly To The Top

2002

$5.99 US / $7.99 CAN

25>

This publication is not licensed or endorsed by the Anaheim Angels or Major League Baseball.

Angels - 2002 World Series Champs., 2002 (1365). Angels - 2002 World Series Champs is published by Multi-Media International., 1359 Broadway, Suite 1203, New York, New York 10018. All rights reserved. No material in this issue may be reprinted without the written permission of the publisher. Entire contents copyright © 2002. Certain photographs used in this publication are used by license or permission from the owner thereof, or are otherwise publicly available. Angels - 2002 World Series Champs and its publishers have no connection with the Angels, Major League Baseball, people featured in this publications or any of their business organizations. Neither photos, nor words used to describe them, are meant to depict actual conduct, statements or personalities of those featured in this publication. PRINTED IN THE USA.

Angels' History Year-By-Year Results

SEASON	TEAM	W	L	PCT	GB	ATTENDANCE
2001	Anaheim Angels	75	87	.463	41.0	2,000,919
2000	Anaheim Angels	82	80	.506	9.5	2,067,002
1999	Anaheim Angels	70	92	.432	25.0	2,253,040
1998	Anaheim Angels	85	77	.525	3.0	2,519,107
1997	Anaheim Angels	84	78	.519	6.0	1,767,330
1996	California Angels	70	91	.435	---	1,820,521
1995	California Angels	78	67	.538	---	1,748,680
1994	California Angels	47	68	.409	---	1,512,622
1993	California Angels	71	91	.438	---	2,057,460
1992	California Angels	72	90	.444	---	2,065,444
1991	California Angels	81	81	.500	---	2,416,236
1990	California Angels	80	82	.494	---	2,555,688
1989	California Angels	91	71	.562	---	2,647,291
1988	California Angels	75	87	.463	---	2,340,925
1987	California Angels	75	87	.463	---	2,696,299
1986	California Angels	92	70	.568	---	2,655,872
1985	California Angels	90	72	.556	---	2,567,427
1984	California Angels	81	81	.500	---	2,402,997
1983	California Angels	70	92	.432	---	2,555,016
1982	California Angels	93	69	.574	---	2,807,360
1981	California Angels	51	59	.464	---	1,441,545
1980	California Angels	65	95	.406	---	2,297,327
1979	California Angels	88	74	.543	---	2,523,575
1978	California Angels	87	75	.537	---	1,755,386
1977	California Angels	74	88	.457	---	1,432,633
1976	California Angels	76	86	.469	---	1,006,774
1975	California Angels	72	89	.447	---	1,058,163
1974	California Angels	68	94	.420	---	917,269
1973	California Angels	79	83	.488	---	1,058,206
1972	California Angels	75	80	.484	---	744,190
1971	California Angels	76	86	.469	---	926,373
1970	California Angels	86	76	.531	---	1,077,741
1969	California Angels	71	91	.438	---	758,388
1968	California Angels	67	95	.414	36.0	1,025,956
1967	California Angels	84	77	.522	7.5	1,317,713
1966	California Angels	80	82	.494	18.0	1,400,321
1965	California Angels	75	87	.463	27.0	566,727
1964	Los Angeles Angels	82	80	.506	17.0	760,439
1963	Los Angeles Angels	70	91	.435	34.0	821,015
1962	Los Angeles Angels	86	76	.531	10.0	1,144,063
1961	Los Angeles Angels	70	91	.435	38.5	603,510

Angels Official Roster

ANAHEIM ANGELS 25-MAN ROSTER

Anaheim Angels

Pitchers	B/T	Ht	Wt	DOB
27 Kevin Appier	R/R	6'2"	200	12/06/67
27 Kevin Appier	R/R	6'2"	200	12/06/67
53 Brendan Donnelly	R/R	6'3"	200	07/04/71
41 John Lackey	R/R	6'6"	205	10/23/78
36 Ramon Ortiz	R/R	6'0"	175	03/23/73
40 Troy Percival	R/R	6'3"	236	08/09/69
57 Francisco Rodriguez	R/R	6'0"	165	01/07/82
60 Scott Schoeneweis	L/L	6'0"	186	10/02/73
62 Scot Shields	R/R	6'1"	175	07/22/75
56 Jarrod Washburn	L/L	6'1"	190	08/13/74
77 Ben Weber	R/R	6'4"	210	11/17/69
25 Randy Velarde	R/R	6'0"	200	11/24/62
14 Enrique Wilson	S/R	5'11"	190	07/27/75
Catchers	B/T	Ht	Wt	DOB
1 Bengie Molina	R/R	5'11"	210	07/20/74
28 Jose Molina	R/R	6'1"	195	06/03/75
44 Shawn Wooten	R/R	5'10"	205	07/24/72
Infielders	B/T	Ht	Wt	DOB
22 David Eckstein	R/R	5'8"	170	01/20/75
6 Chone Figgins	S/R	5'9"	155	01/22/78
10 Benji Gil	R/R	6'2"	210	10/06/72
25 Troy Glaus	R/R	6'5"	245	08/03/76
2 Adam Kennedy	L/R	6'1"	190	01/10/76
23 Scott Spiezio	S/R	6'2"	225	09/21/72
Outfielders	B/T	Ht	Wt	DOB
16 Garret Anderson	L/L	6'3"	240	06/30/72
17 Darin Erstad	L/L	6'2"	220	06/04/74
18 Alex Ochoa	R/R	6'0"	200	03/29/72
3 Orlando Palmeiro	L/L	5'10"	175	01/19/69
15 Tim Salmon	R/R	6'3"	225	08/24/68
Designated Hitters	B/T	Ht	Wt	DOB
20 Brad Fullmer	L/R	6'0"	215	01/17/75

ANAHEIM ANGELS

2002 World Champions

Dreams do come true, they can happen to you...even if you are a lifelong fan of the Angels. Just ask Mike Scioscia, who took the reigns of a dark-horse Anaheim club and rode it all the way to the winner's circle in 2002. Guess what baseball fans, the sky has fallen—the Angels won it all.

This was truly a dream-like season for the Angels that started out looking like a familiar nightmare. But the bats of Series' heroes like Glaus, Anderson and Salmon got going, the young pitchers came around and the team found themselves in the thick of things for the duration of the season. Down the home-stretch, the Angels did the opposite of what they were known for, and pulled away from the rest of the Wild Card pack by going on a tear that carried them through to the World Series. This was clearly a team of destiny that wasn't to be denied, and the Angels kept proving people wrong all the way up to the World Series, when they fell behind the Giants 3-2.

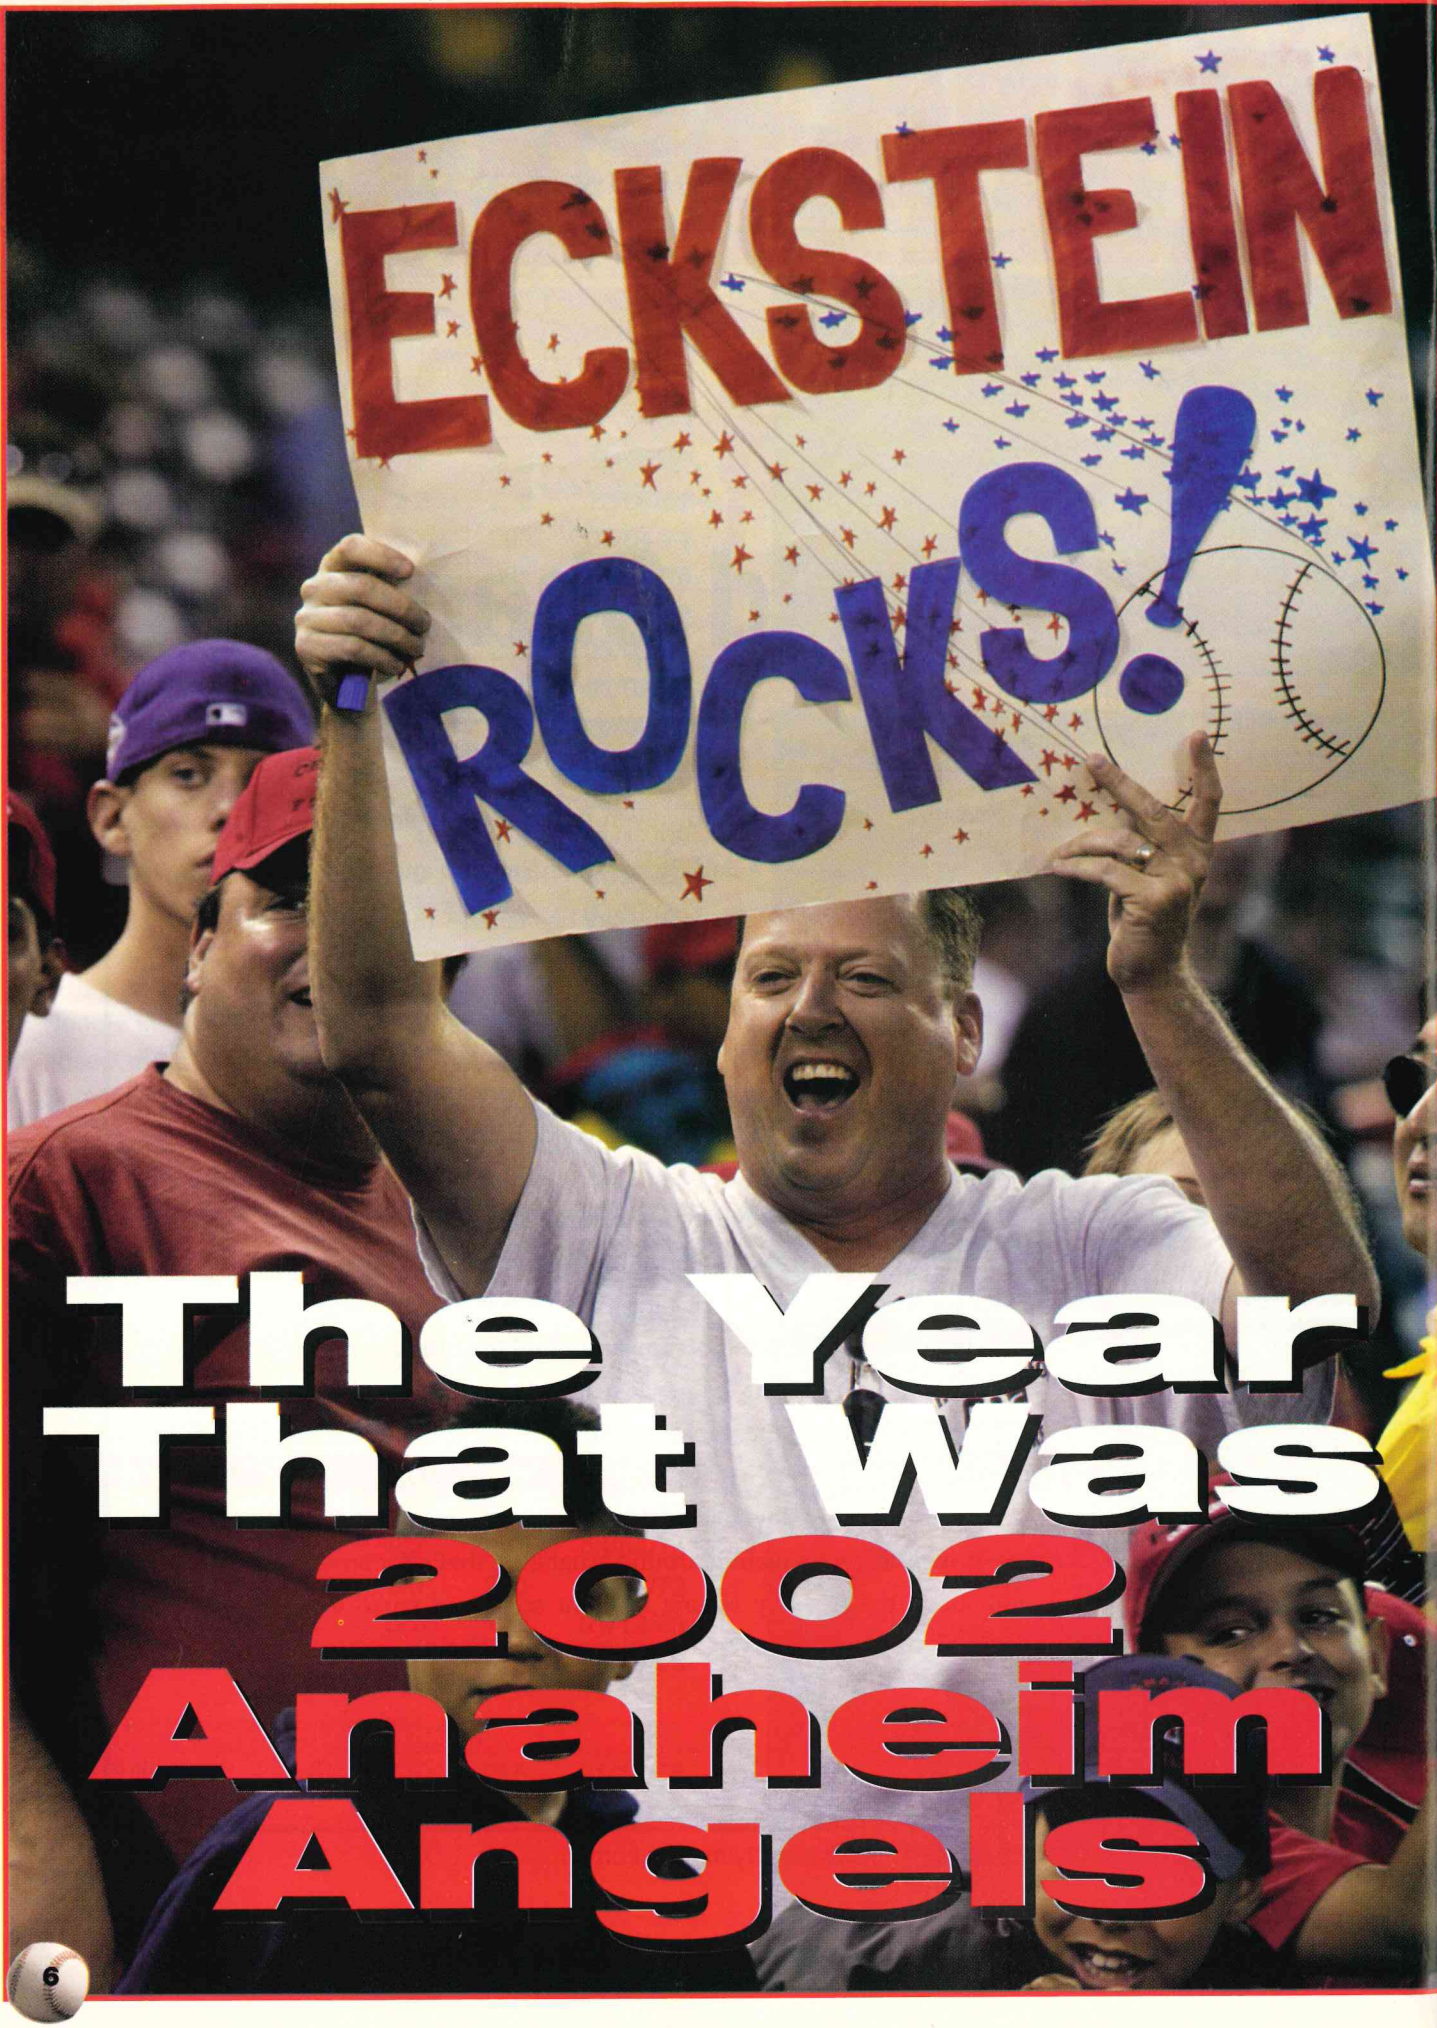

This was a season to remember, capped by one heck of a World Series, which provided plenty of fireworks and a comeback for the ages. For Angels fans, players and management, nothing could top the fireworks that exploded into the sky as their team summited the ultimate mountain top with their first World Championship in their 41 year history; except for the thought that somewhere up there, Gene Autry is smiling, singing and dancing, and basking in the glow of his teams unprecedented success.

The house will be rocking on opening day 2003 when the Angels open up Edison Field as the defending World Champs. It will be a new feeling around Anaheim, that's for sure, for a club that redefined themselves, and made their legacy in one brilliant season of small expectations that reached to dizzying heights. All hail the Angels—Champions of the World!

Brian T. Spero

Editor In Chief

*All photos provided by Getty Images at www.gettyimages.com.

A photograph of a man in a white t-shirt cheering with his mouth open, holding a large white sign. The sign has 'ECKSTEIN' in large red letters and 'ROCKS!' in large blue letters. There are many small red and blue stars scattered around the text, and a drawing of a baseball is on the right side of the sign. In the background, other fans are visible, including a man in a purple cap and a woman in a red cap. The entire image is framed by a thick red border.

ECKSTEIN
ROCKS!

The Year
That Was 2002
Anaheim
Angels

The Angels entered the off-season leading up to the 2002 season with a mind set of improving their club's personnel, and putting the pieces in place to make a run at the AL West. The most glaring move they made was initiated by the Mets, who sought to acquire the services of Mo Vaughn, once a franchise-type player, but one who had been sidelined with an injury for over a year. By moving Vaughn's contract and picking up a quality starting pitcher in Kevin Appier, the Angels were on the right track—and picking up lefty DH Brad Fullmer added some pep to the back of the order. But really, the season was based on letting the seeds that the organization had sewn take root, with exciting young talent up and down the lineup with David Eckstein, Troy Glaus and Garret Anderson coming into their own, and leaders like Darin Erstad and Tim Salmon on board to show them the way to the post-season.

The optimistic outlook the Angels sported through preseason was quickly tested as the team struggled out of the gate to a 6-14 record. The popular Mike Scioscia, who had the faith of the team and the ownership, had to start feeling the heat to produce, and lit a fire under the team to get going before things really fell apart. The Angels responded by bringing their record up to .500 by early May, and continued to heat up as the summer months came and went. The race for the division out West was a wild one as usual, with the A's, Mariners and Angels battling it out down the stretch, and it soon became clear that all the teams involved would be keeping their sights on the Wild Card as well.

Although the A's were on an amazing run in the late part of the season, the Angels hung tight with impressive seasons from the young hurler Jarrod Washburn leading the way, and the always dominating Troy Percival having another amazing season. By August it was clear that something special was brewing in Anaheim, as the team continued to hit lights-out, led by their emerging star, Garret Anderson, and the scrappy David Eckstein. Balance, as was the case all season long, was carrying the Angels past the competition and into the thick of the playoff race. At one point at the end of August going into September, the Angels went 17-2, which announced to the rest of the American League that this was a team to be reckoned with.

Setting their sights on the playoffs for the first time in the new millennium, the Angels' fans were going Rally Monkey crazy and loving their dynamic team. And with rookies like pitcher John Lackey throwing great, and the late season call-up of the 20-year-old phenom Francisco Rodriguez, everything was coming together. With the Wild Card locked up and the matchups set, the Angels prepared to meet the defending AL Champ Yankees in the best of five, and expected nothing more than to give it everything they had. The Angels had been to the first round of the playoffs before, but never any further, but something felt different in 2002. With optimism brewing the team marched into October with the rest of the best, to take their chances, and their hacks, on their way to the grand prize—a World Series Championship.

2002 Angels Regular Season Schedule and Results

	OPPONENT	RESULT	REC.	ATT.		OPPONENT	RESULT	REC.	ATT.
Mar. '02					June '02
Sun. 31	Cleveland	L 6-0	0-1	42,697	Sat. 1	at Minnesota	L 4-2	30-22	17,480
Apr. '02					Sun. 2	at Minnesota	W 5-4	31-22	18,657
Tue. 2	Cleveland	W 7-5	1-1	20,055	Mon. 3	Texas	W 5-2	32-22	15,619
Wed. 3	Cleveland	L 6-5	1-2	18,194	Tue. 4	Texas	W 3-0	33-22	16,810
Fri. 5	at Texas	W 3-1	2-2	49,617	Wed. 5	Texas	W 7-5	34-22	15,301
Sat. 6	at Texas	W 6-3	3-2	35,006	Thu. 6	Texas	L 9-8	34-23	17,948
Sun. 7	at Texas	Postponed		N/A	Fri. 7	Cincinnati	W 4-3	35-23	35,341
Mon. 8	Seattle	L 5-4	3-3	16,908	Sat. 8	Cincinnati	L 4-3	35-24	29,881
Tue. 9	Seattle	L 5-1	3-4	17,210	Sun. 9	Cincinnati	W 7-4	36-24	35,501
Wed. 10	Seattle	L 8-1	3-5	17,784	Mon. 10	Pittsburgh	W 4-3	37-24	16,861
Thu. 11	Seattle	L 8-4	3-6	18,806	Tue. 11	Pittsburgh	L 7-3	37-25	17,755
Fri. 12	Oakland	L 5-1	3-7	31,815	Wed. 12	Pittsburgh	W 8-5	38-25	17,096
Sat. 13	Oakland	L 7-2	3-8	33,544	Fri. 14	at Los Angeles	W 8-4	39-25	51,722
Sun. 14	Oakland	W 4-1	4-8	32,881	Sat. 15	at Los Angeles	L 10-5	39-26	52,165
Tue. 16	Texas	W 6-5	5-8	15,385	Sun. 16	at Los Angeles	L 5-4	39-27	52,183
Wed. 17	Texas	L 4-1	5-9	15,632	Tue. 18	at St. Louis	L 7-2	39-28	39,386
Thu. 18	at Oakland	L 4-2	5-10	9,145	Wed. 19	at St. Louis	L 6-2	39-29	35,432
Fri. 19	at Oakland	W 9-7	6-10	12,468	Thu. 20	at St. Louis	W 3-2	40-29	36,385
Sat. 20	at Oakland	L 8-7	6-11	20,253	Fri. 21	at Milwaukee	W 11-4	41-29	20,289
Sun. 21	at Oakland	L 6-5	6-12	20,088	Sat. 22	at Milwaukee	W 8-2	42-29	28,765
Mon. 22	at Seattle	L 16-5	6-13	33,119	Sun. 23	at Milwaukee	W 5-2	43-29	23,751
Tue. 23	at Seattle	L 1-0	6-14	32,127	Mon. 24	at Texas	L 8-5	43-30	N/A
Wed. 24	at Seattle	W 10-6	7-14	37,212	Mon. 24	at Texas	L 3-2	43-31	23,103
Fri. 26	Toronto	W 4-0	8-14	25,296	Tue. 25	at Texas	L 11-5	43-32	20,089
Sat. 27	Toronto	W 11-4	9-14	29,112	Wed. 26	at Texas	W 7-6	44-32	29,726
Sun. 28	Toronto	W 8-5	10-14	25,073	Thu. 27	at Texas	W 6-3	45-32	22,077
Tue. 30	at Cleveland	W 21-2	11-14	24,286	Fri. 28	Los Angeles	L 7-5	45-33	43,690
May '02					Sat. 29	Los Angeles	W 7-0	46-33	43,592
Wed. 1	at Cleveland	W 7-2	12-14	23,536	Sun. 30	Los Angeles	W 5-1	47-33	43,059
Thu. 2	at Cleveland	W 8-0	13-14	26,068	July '02
Fri. 3	at Toronto	W 6-4	4-14	13,183	Tue. 2	Baltimore	L 3-0	47-34	18,521
Sat. 4	at Toronto	L 4-1	14-15	20,558	Wed. 3	Baltimore	W 1-0	48-34	17,477
Sun. 5	at Toronto	W 8-2	15-15	24,046	Thu. 4	Baltimore	L 7-2	48-35	43,342
Tue. 7	Detroit	L 3-0	15-16	15,315	Fri. 5	Tampa Bay	W 6-5	49-35	23,648
Wed. 8	Detroit	W 3-2	16-16	14,722	Sat. 6	Tampa Bay	W 4-3	50-35	29,513
Thu. 9	Detroit	W 7-6	17-16	15,003	Sun. 7	Tampa Bay	W 2-1	51-35	26,446
Fri. 10	Chicago	W 19-0	18-16	36,715	Thu. 11	at Kansas City	W 1-0	52-35	13,031
Sat. 11	Chicago	W 6-3	19-16	40,535	Fri. 12	at Kansas City	W 11-3	53-35	24,824
Sun. 12	Chicago	W 5-4	20-16	19,251	Sat. 13	at Kansas City	L 4-0	53-36	19,504
Tue. 14	at Detroit	W 9-2	21-16	12,745	Sun. 14	at Kansas City	L 12-3	53-37	12,457
Wed. 15	at Detroit	W 10-1	22-16	12,314	Mon. 15	at Minnesota	L 10-8	53-38	19,189
Thu. 16	at Detroit	Postponed		N/A	Tue. 16	at Minnesota	W 4-2	54-38	26,258
Fri. 17	at Chicago	W 8-4	23-16	12,736	Wed. 17	at Oakland	W 10-4	55-38	38,547
Sat. 18	at Chicago	L 10-4	23-17	21,122	Thu. 18	at Oakland	L 2-0	55-39	15,733
Sun. 19	at Chicago	W 6-1	24-17	19,869	Fri. 19	Seattle	W 15-3	56-39	43,407
Mon. 20	Kansas City	W 6-3	25-17	14,035	Sat. 20	Seattle	W 7-6	57-39	43,109
Tue. 21	Kansas City	W 5-1	26-17	15,593	Sun. 21	Seattle	W 7-5	58-39	34,945
Wed. 22	Kansas City	W 7-6	27-17	16,163	Tue. 23	Oakland	L 2-1	58-40	25,370
Fri. 24	Minnesota	L 5-1	27-18	27,494	Wed. 24	Oakland	W 5-1	59-40	25,240
Sat. 25	Minnesota	W 4-3	28-18	31,820	Thu. 25	Oakland	W 5-4	60-40	31,653
Sun. 26	Minnesota	L 5-2	28-19	22,854	Fri. 26	at Seattle	W 8-0	61-40	45,559
Tue. 28	at Kansas City	L 7-4	28-20	11,773	Sat. 27	at Seattle	L 3-1	61-41	45,974
Wed. 29	at Kansas City	W 12-2	29-20	13,662	Sun. 28	at Seattle	W 1-0	62-41	45,634
Thu. 30	at Minnesota	L 7-6	29-21	14,521	Mon. 29	Boston	W 5-4	63-41	27,929
Fri. 31	at Minnesota	W 11-3			Tue. 30	Boston	L 6-0	63-42	32,812
					Wed. 31	Boston	L 2-1	63-43	28,227

	OPPONENT	RESULT	REC.	ATT.
Aug. '02
Thu. 1	New York	W 2-1	64-43	42,897
Fri. 2	New York	L 4-0	64-44	43,668
Sat. 3	New York	W 5-4	65-44	43,619
Sun. 4	New York	L 7-5	65-45	43,455
Mon. 5	at Detroit	W 6-3	66-45	18,546
Tue. 6	at Chicago	W 11-2	67-45	17,706
Wed. 7	at Chicago	L 7-6	67-46	14,253
Thu. 8	at Chicago	L 3-2	67-47	18,165
Fri. 9	at Toronto	L 5-4	67-48	18,728
Sat. 10	at Toronto	W 11-4	68-48	25,118
Sun. 11	at Toronto	W 1-0	69-48	34,013
Mon. 12	Detroit	W 7-0	70-48	19,709
Tue. 13	Detroit	W 7-6	71-48	19,694
Wed. 14	Detroit	W 5-4	72-48	23,391
Fri. 16	Cleveland	W 5-4	73-48	41,356
Sat. 17	Cleveland	L 9-4	73-49	39,866
Sun. 18	Cleveland	W 4-1	74-4	41,059
Tue. 20	at New York	L 7-5	74-50	41,619
Wed. 21	at New York	W 5-1	75-50	46,423
Thu. 22	at New York	L 4-2	75-51	43,222
Fri. 23	at Boston	L 4-1	75-52	33,221
Sat. 24	at Boston	W 2-0	76-52	32,510
Sun. 25	at Boston	W 8-3	77-52	32,059
Mon. 26	at Boston	L 10-9	77-53	32,869
Tue. 27	Tampa Bay	W 7-3	78-53	19,869
Wed. 28	Tampa Bay	L 8-5	78-54	17,740
Thu. 29	Tampa Bay	W 6-1	79-54	18,820
Fri. 30	Baltimore	W 6-2	80-54	29,959
Sat. 31	Baltimore	W 9-0	81-54	38,563

Sept. '02
Sun. 1	Baltimore	W 9-3	82-54	24,592
Tue. 3	at Tampa Bay	W 10-2	83-54	10,146
Wed. 4	at Tampa Bay	W 4-2	84-54	10,161
Thu. 5	at Tampa Bay	W 10-1	85-54	10,135
Fri. 6	at Baltimore	W 6-3	86-54	24,045
Sat. 7	at Baltimore	W 4-2	87-54	30,714
Sun. 8	at Baltimore	W 6-2	88-54	27,665
Mon. 9	Oakland	L 2-1	88-55	28,145
Tue. 10	Oakland	W 5-2	89-55	35,323
Wed. 11	Oakland	W 6-5	90-55	34,302
Thu. 12	Oakland	W 7-6	91-55	31,304
Fri. 13	Texas	W 3-2	92-55	35,345
Sat. 14	Texas	W 8-6	93-55	39,909
Sun. 15	Texas	W 13-4	94-55	33,445
Mon. 16	at Oakland	L 4-3	94-56	22,326
Tue. 17	at Oakland	W 1-0	95-56	25,894
Wed. 18	at Oakland	L 7-4	95-57	50,730
Thu. 19	at Oakland	L 5-3	95-58	27,435
Fri. 20	at Seattle	W 8-1	96-58	45,663
Sat. 21	at Seattle	L 6-4	96-59	45,784
Sun. 22	at Seattle	L 3-2	96-60	45,693
Tue. 24	at Texas	L 2-1	96-61	21,869
Wed. 25	at Texas	L 4-3	96-62	20,976
Thu. 26	at Texas	W 10-5	97-62	21,774
Fri. 27	Seattle	L 7-6	97-63	43,452
Sat. 28	Seattle	W 8-4	98-63	43,202
Sun. 29	Seattle	W 7-6	99-63	42,878

THE ANGELS CHAMPIONS AT LAST THANKS TO THE RALLY MONKEY?

According to www.rallymonkey.com, who offers the biography of the Anaheim Angels' Rally Monkey of recent fame, that "The" Rally Monkey has a favorite color, which is red, of course. But, more interestingly they claim that R.M. (as his friends are known to call Rally Monkey) has a favorite movie,

Angels In The Outfield,

and that his favorite song is "Shock The Monkey" by Peter

Gabriel. We're not sure exactly how they came by this information, but we feel that it illustrates an excellent point, which is,

at long last, that the whole Rally Monkey

craze has taken on a life of its own.

The legend of the Rally Monkey began innocently enough on a warm day in June which found the Angels losing to the NL Giants in a regular season game. That day the crew at Edison field were working hard to come up with a way to fire up the fans, and put a well known scene from the Jim Carrey comedy, Ace Ventura, Pet Detective, in which a Monkey is hilariously jumping up and down with the words "Rally Monkey" superimposed, on the JumboTron. Something struck a cord, the Angels came back to win and the crowd loved it. The Rally Monkey was born.

But does this crowd pleasing gimmick really help the Angels win games? At this point the resounding answer seems to be, "Who cares!" The Angels are World Champs for the first time ever and the Monkey is more popular than Mickey Mouse these day at Disneyland (well, it might be a tie. . .). It's hard to argue with results when you look at the big picture from that angle, especially the way the Angels, coincidence or not (wink, wink), played come from behind baseball during their stretch run for the AL Wild Card, and magical passage through the post-season.

But do the players responsible for actually playing the games take issue with the Rally Monkey for grabbing some of the spotlight off of that World Championship glow? Perhaps Adam Kennedy, one of the heroes of the Angels amazing season, put it best when he admitted that he loves the Rally Monkey. He went on, "and so does everyone else, so long live the Rally Monkey." Indeed Mr. Kennedy, the Rally Monkey is good for baseball. . . and so are the Angels.

The American League Division Series

Angels Chop Down The Mighty Yankees In A Power-Packed Best Of Five

The worst possible scenario had played out the night before, which didn't bode well for their present predicament. The American League East Champions had their mojo working once again and the Yankees mystic was very much alive. The Bombers, led by the impeccable Bernie Williams, had done it again, with a late inning comeback that signaled yet another New York October run. According to most experts the series was now officially over, as a New York victory was going to be a matter of course. Congratulations Anaheim Angels, you had a heck of a year, but the joy ride stops here in the Bronx. Wrong.

Anaheim had built a 4-0 lead on the strength of their hot batting order in Game 2, featuring home runs by Tim Salmon and Scott Spiezio. But the Yankees started to chip away, beginning with a Derek Jeter homer, followed by a two RBI double off the bat of Juan Rivera in the fourth. In the sixth Alfonzo Soriano went deep for a two run shot and just like that the lead was gone. Hope, like a bottle cast into the ocean began to float away. But not for the members of the Anaheim Angels, who weren't quite ready to bow out of the running with outs and game left to be played.

Boom, Garret Anderson homers to right center to lead off the eighth. Bang. . . Troy Glaus follows with a blast to center. Later in the inning Adam Kennedy scores Figgins on a long sacrifice fly to right. And just like that the Angels were back in control of the game. Each team would go on to score one more run, but what them of bringing down the mighty AL Champs—a task that no other American League team was up for in the last five years.

For the remainder of the didn't come is another Yankee, miracle, a comeback and flop. The Angels were now in the series, with a chance to take the Yanks back to Anaheim, where they could finish the job series the roles were reversed in the baseball world, with the Angels answering every challenge that the Yankees posed to them. Down 3-0 and 6-1 in Game 3 and the Angels didn't sweat it.

Calmed by the steady leadership of their manager Mike Scioscia, the Angels just hung around and chipped away at every deficit. Kennedy and Salmon went deep while the rest of the lineup remained red hot, in the end hanging an impressive nine runs on the Yanks. The phenom right-hander Francisco Rodriguez picked up the win and Percival his second save as the Angels began to look forward to advancing in front of their home crowds.

Anaheim was rocking when it came time for Game 4, but this was the type of scene the New York Yankees were used to—they lived for the pressure of an elimination game on the road. Pitching kept both teams relatively quiet through four innings, with post-season veteran David Wells battling Jarrod Washburn pitch for pitch. The Yanks took a 2-1 lead on a sacrifice fly from Jeter that scored Juan

Rivera. The Angels once again immediately responded in the bottom of the inning, chasing Wells with a record setting eight run inning, with basically every player in an Angels uniform chipping in offensively. The Yanks battled back to some degree, but it was too little too late. With the one-two combination of Rodriguez and Percival, the Angels lead was insurmountable, and the restless fans began to breath easy as the Angels ventured into unfamiliar territory by advancing in the playoffs to the American League Championship Series.

For the Angels, this was a special series necessary in their young teams development—proving that the success they had in the regular season was no fluke. For the NY Yankees and their fans came the realization that despite having the highest payroll in the game, and all of the ghost and legends that seem to will them on from year to year, that nothing is a gimme. The Angels had played the role of David to the Yankees Golieth, and dropped the might Yankees in the ALDS.

American League Division Series Series Recap

Anaheim Angels Defeat New York Yankees 3-1

GAME 1: New York Yankees 8,
Anaheim 5

GAME 2: Anaheim 8,
New York Yankees 6

GAME 3: Anaheim 9,
New York Yankees 6

GAME 4: Anaheim 9,
New York Yankees 5

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

He's been called the human rally monkey, and that's a compliment to the undersized Eckstein who has made a major impact with the Angles in his first two years in the league. Give credit to the organization once again for giving this kid a shot, and credit to Eckstein for getting the job done. This is the guy who makes the offense go by getting on base and making things happen, with enough pop in his bat to keep opposing pitching honest. No one had an answer for Angles hitters throughout the playoffs, and that all starts at the top of the order with David Eckstein.

DAVID ECKSTEIN #22 SS

Full name: David Mark Eckstein

Born: 01/20/75

Birthplace: Sanford, FL

Height: 5'8"

Weight: 170

Position: SS

Bats: Right

Throws: Right

MLB Debut: 04/03/01

2002 Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
152	608	107	178	22	6	8	63	236	45	44	21	.388	.293

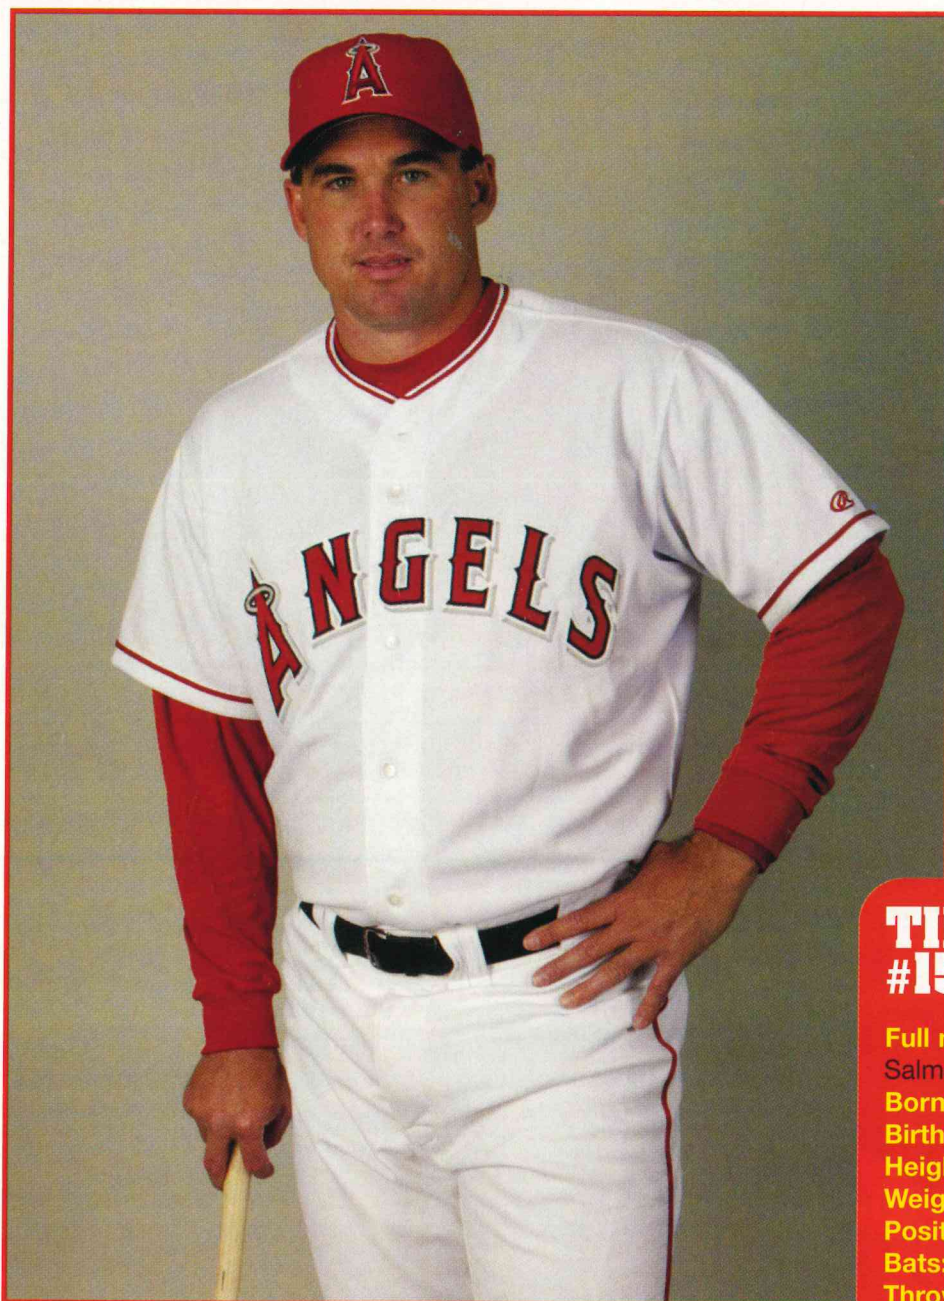

Career Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
305	1190	189	344	48	8	12	104	444	88	104	50	.373	.289

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

Tim Salmon's steady play and positive presence in the Anaheim clubhouse was invaluable for the Angels' play-off run. Ironically, Salmon had been on the short list of players that had been in the league without going to the playoffs, a necessary evil of playing for the Angels before this year. Patience pays off, and every dog has his day, as Salmon was finally rewarded with a World Series ring after hitting 269 homers in an Angels uniform.

TIM SALMON #15 RF

Full name: Timothy James Salmon

Born: 08/24/68

Birthplace: Long Beach, CA

Height: 6'3"

Weight: 225

Position: RF

Bats: Right

Throws: Right

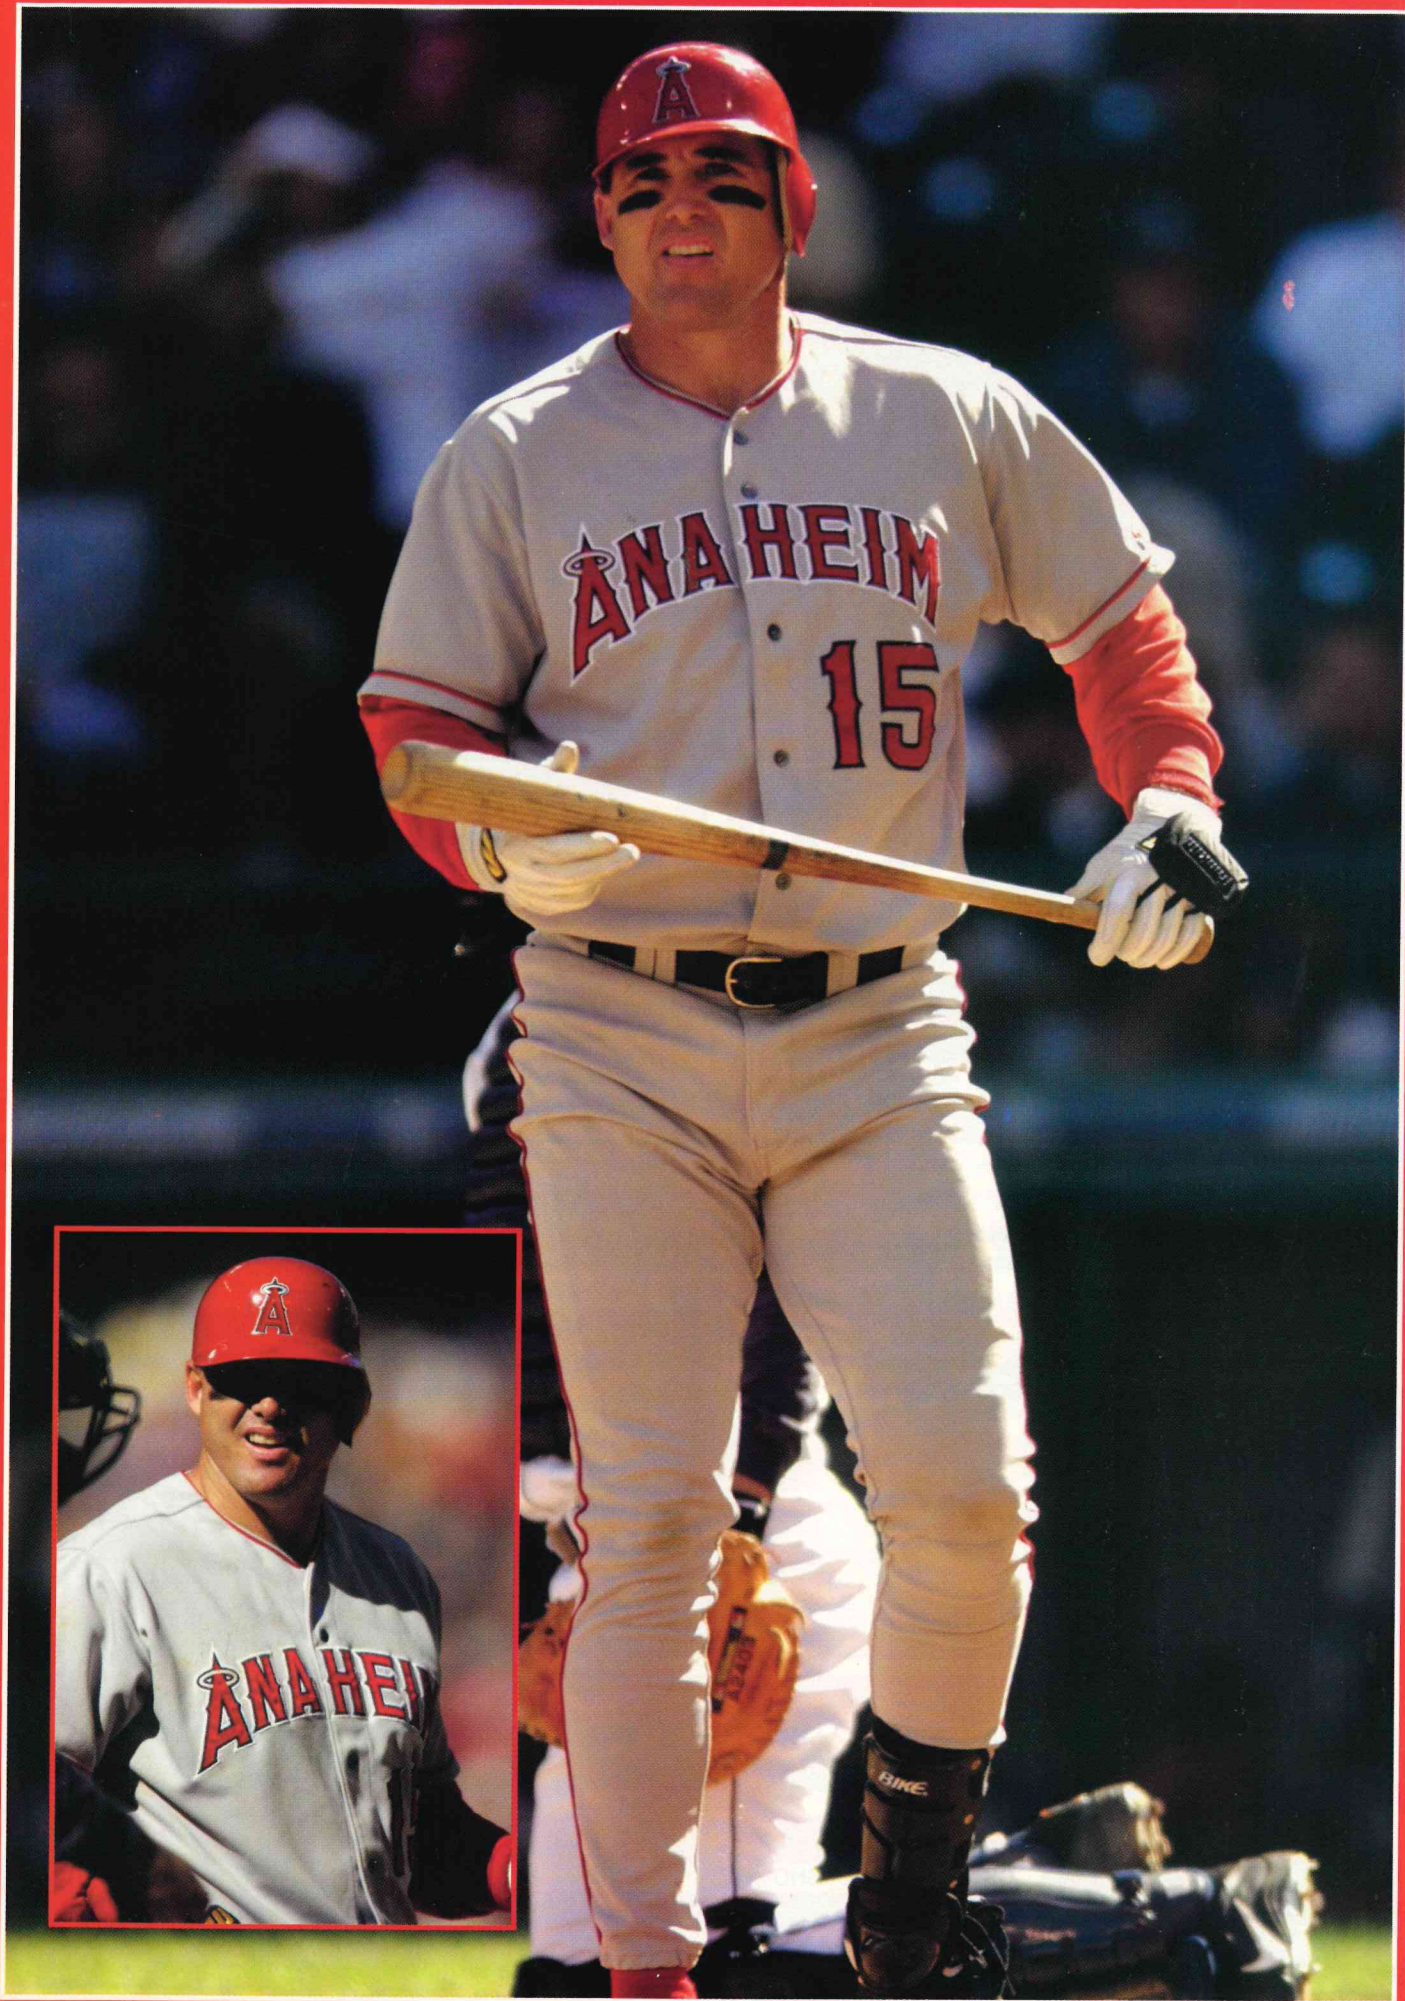

MLB Debut: 08/21/92

2002 Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
138	483	84	138	37	1	22	88	243	71	102	6	.503	.286

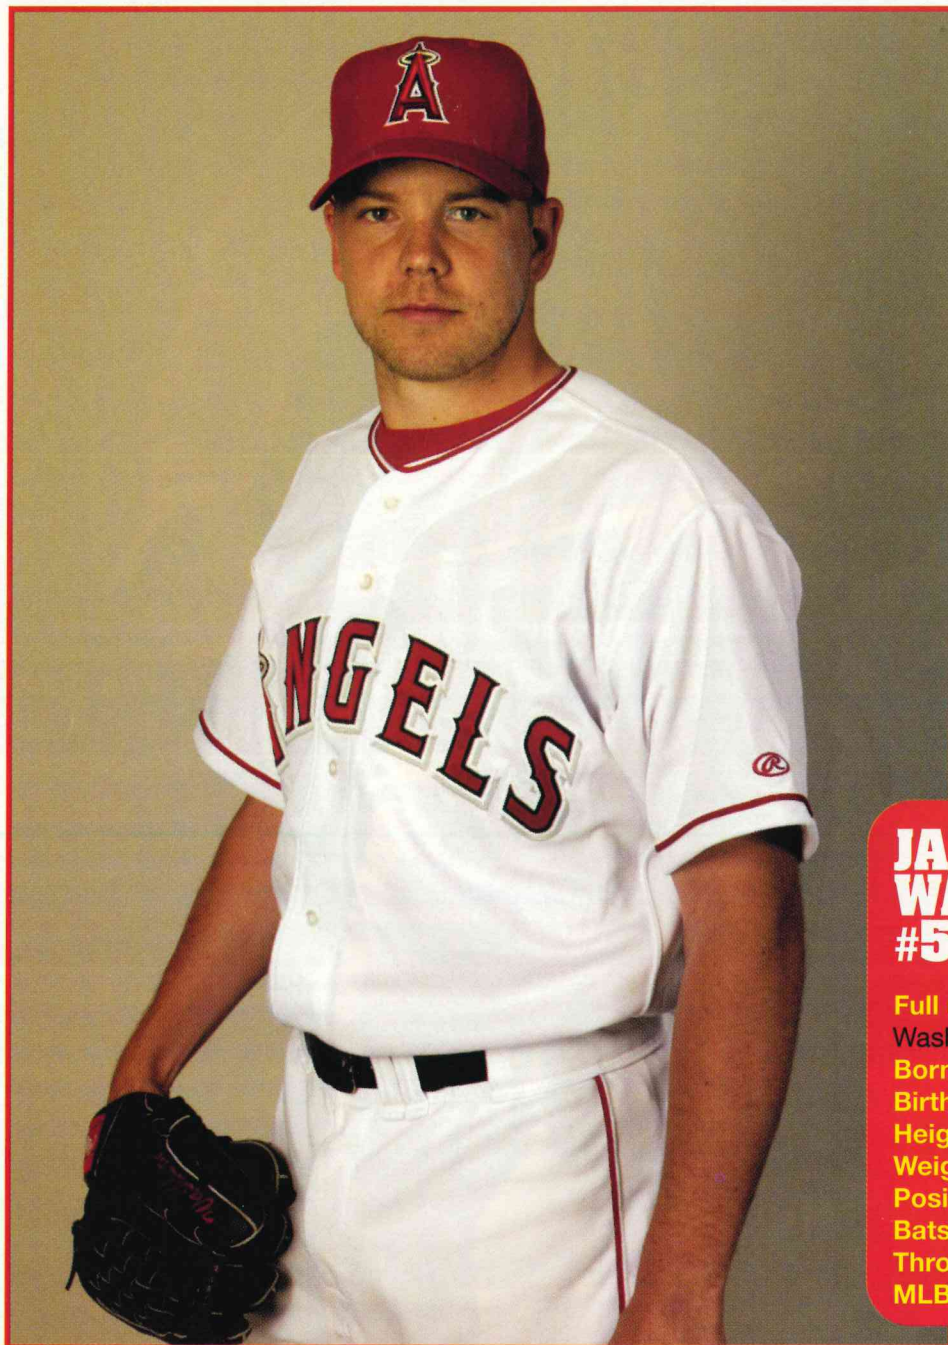

Career Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
1388	5009	863	1426	289	18	269	894	2558	850	1182	44	.511	.285

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

In just his second full year with the big club, Jarrod Washburn has established himself as the true ace of the Anaheim pitching staff. The young lefthander's 18 wins were tops among Angels, and his 3.15 ERA led the club's starting rotation. Washburn won't blow batters out of the box, but he can handle batters from both sides of the plate and will be the main stay of this resurgent Angels team for years to come.

JARROD WASHBURN #56 P

Full name: Jarrod Michael Washburn

Born: 08/13/74

Birthplace: LaCrosse, WI

Height: 6'1"

Weight: 190

Position: P

Bats: Left

Throws: Left

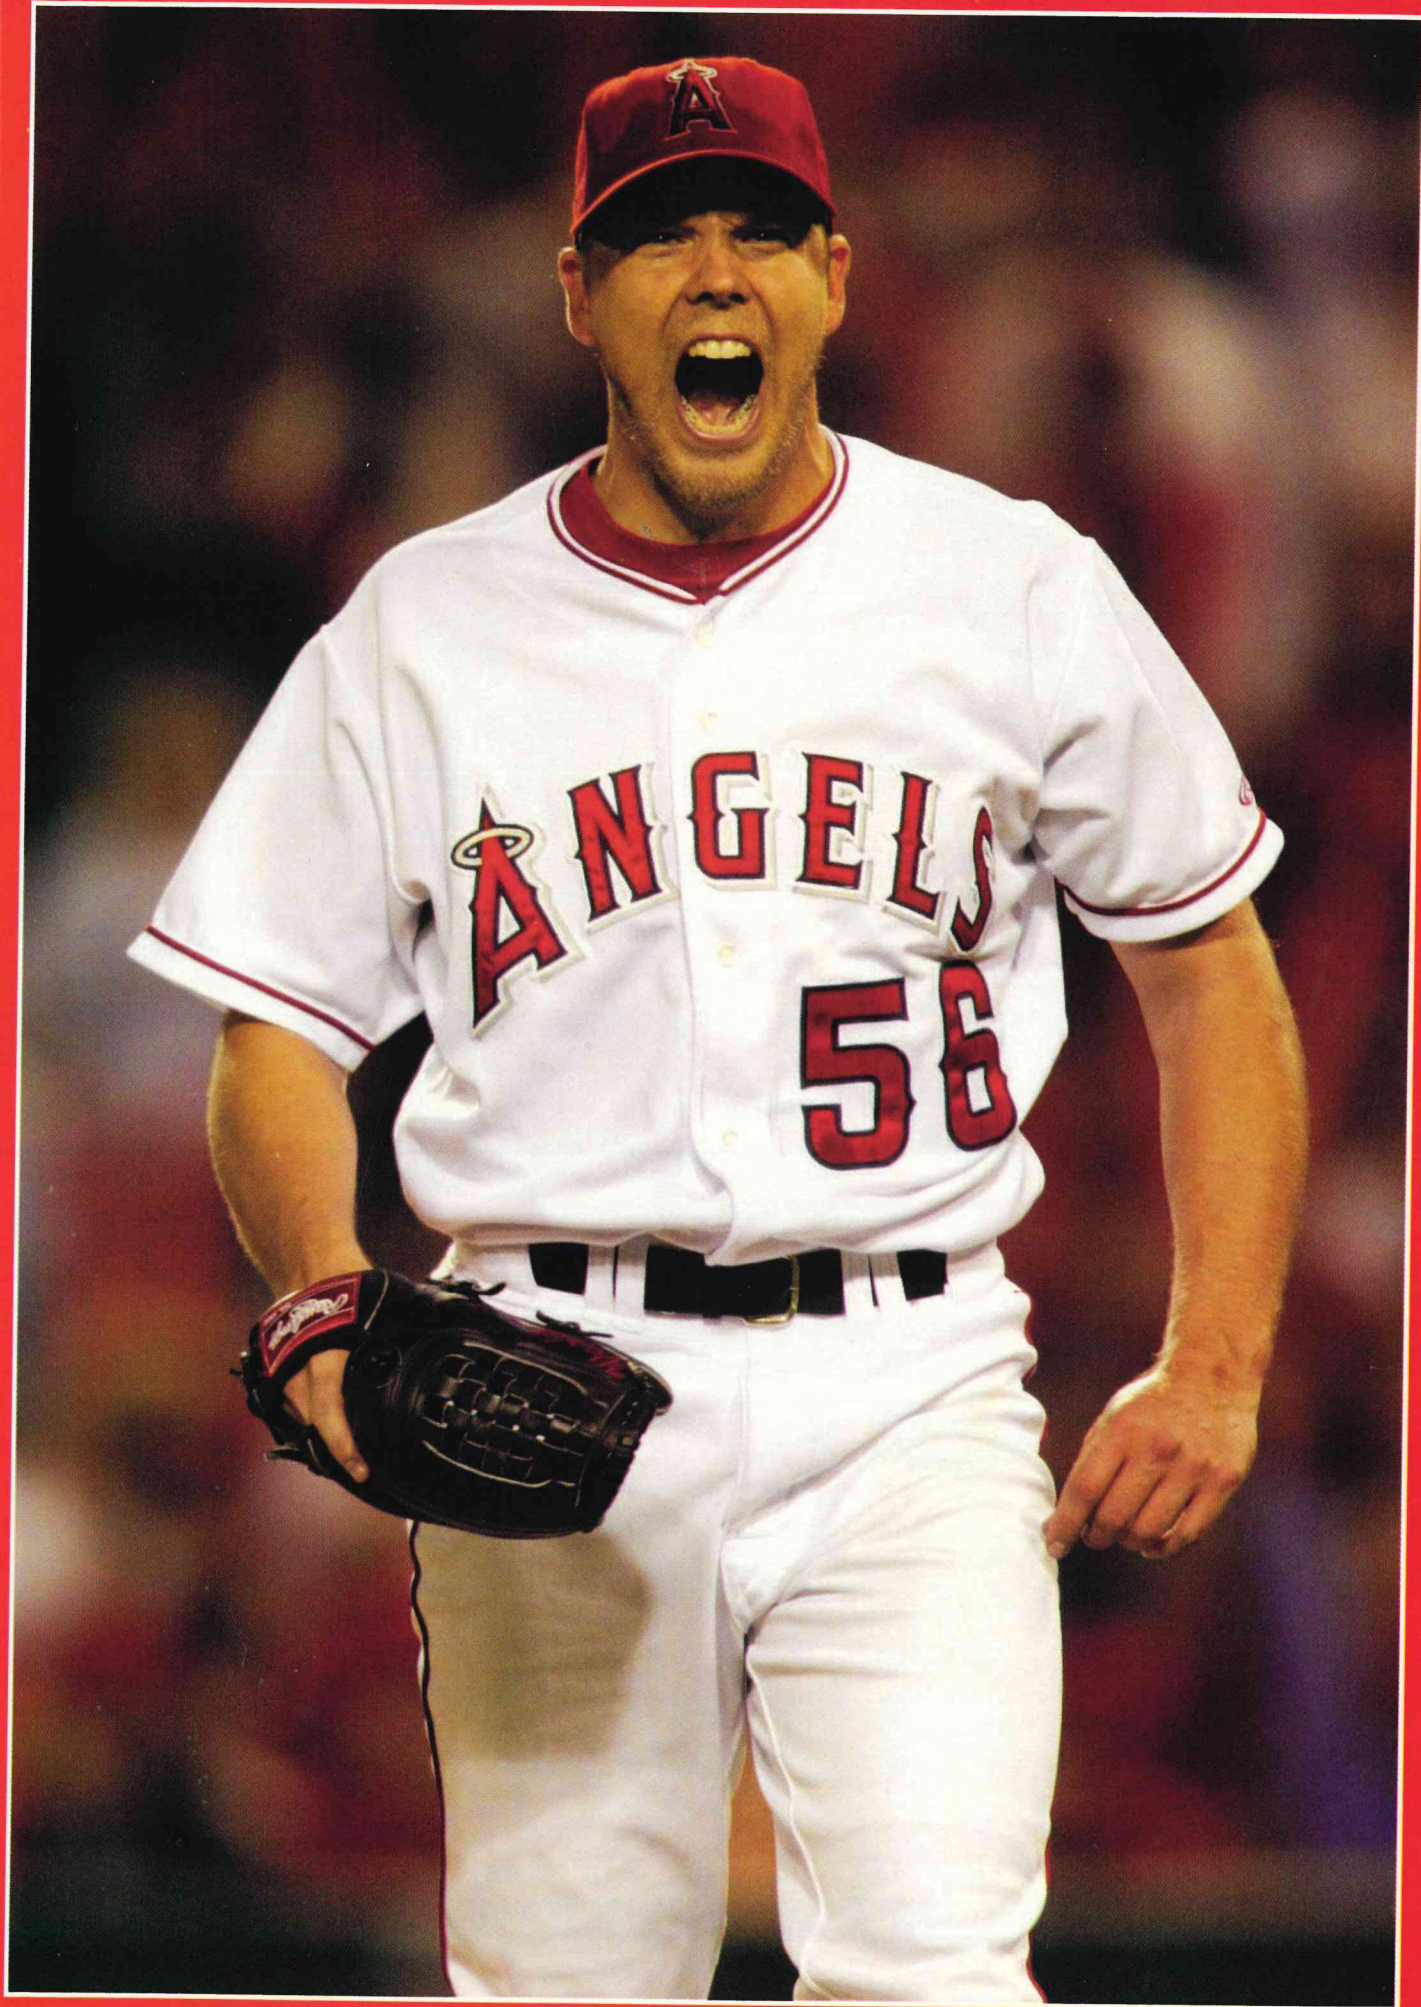

MLB Debut: 06/02/98

2002 Pitching Stats:

W	L	ERA	G	GS	CG	SHO	SV	SVO	IP	H	R	ER	BB	SO
18	6	3.15	32	32	1	0	0	--	206.0	183	75	72	59	139

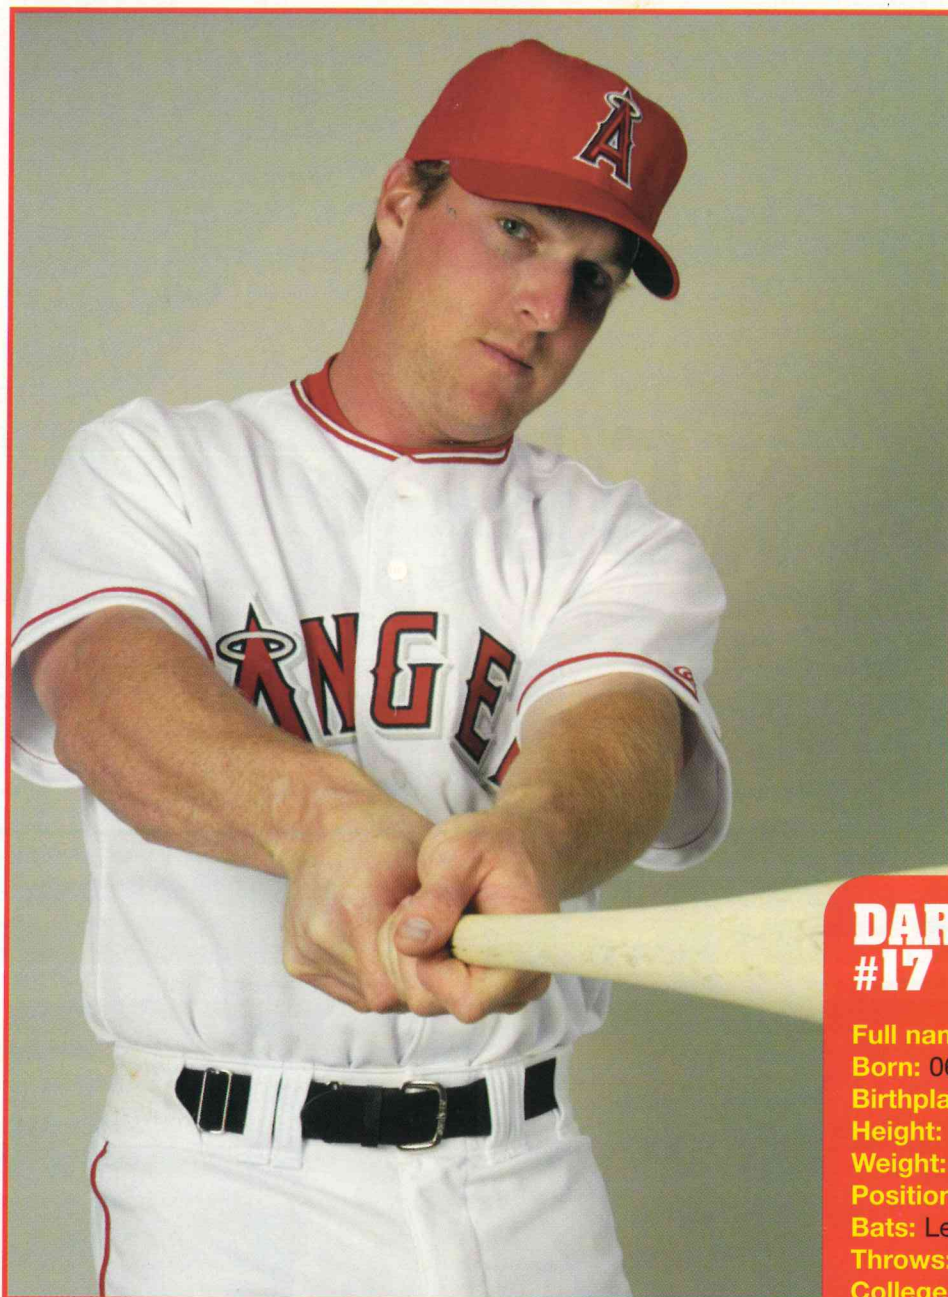

Career Pitching Stats:

W	L	ERA	G	GS	CG	SHO	SV	SVO	IP	H	R	ER	BB	SO
46	26	3.81	107	97	2	0	0	--	619.1	574	278	262	203	401

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

Erstad provides yet another tough out at the top of the order for a gritty Angels lineup that wore down the New York Yankees ace pitching staff in the ALDS, before overpowering the AL Central Champion Twins. After an off year in 2001, in which Erstad posted a career high 113 strikeouts and a career low batting average, he returned to form and helped lead the Angels on and off the field.

DARIN ERSTAD #17 CF

Full name: Darin Charles Erstad

Born: 06/04/74

Birthplace: Jamestown, ND

Height: 6'2"

Weight: 220

Position: CF

Bats: Left

Throws: Left

College: Nebraska

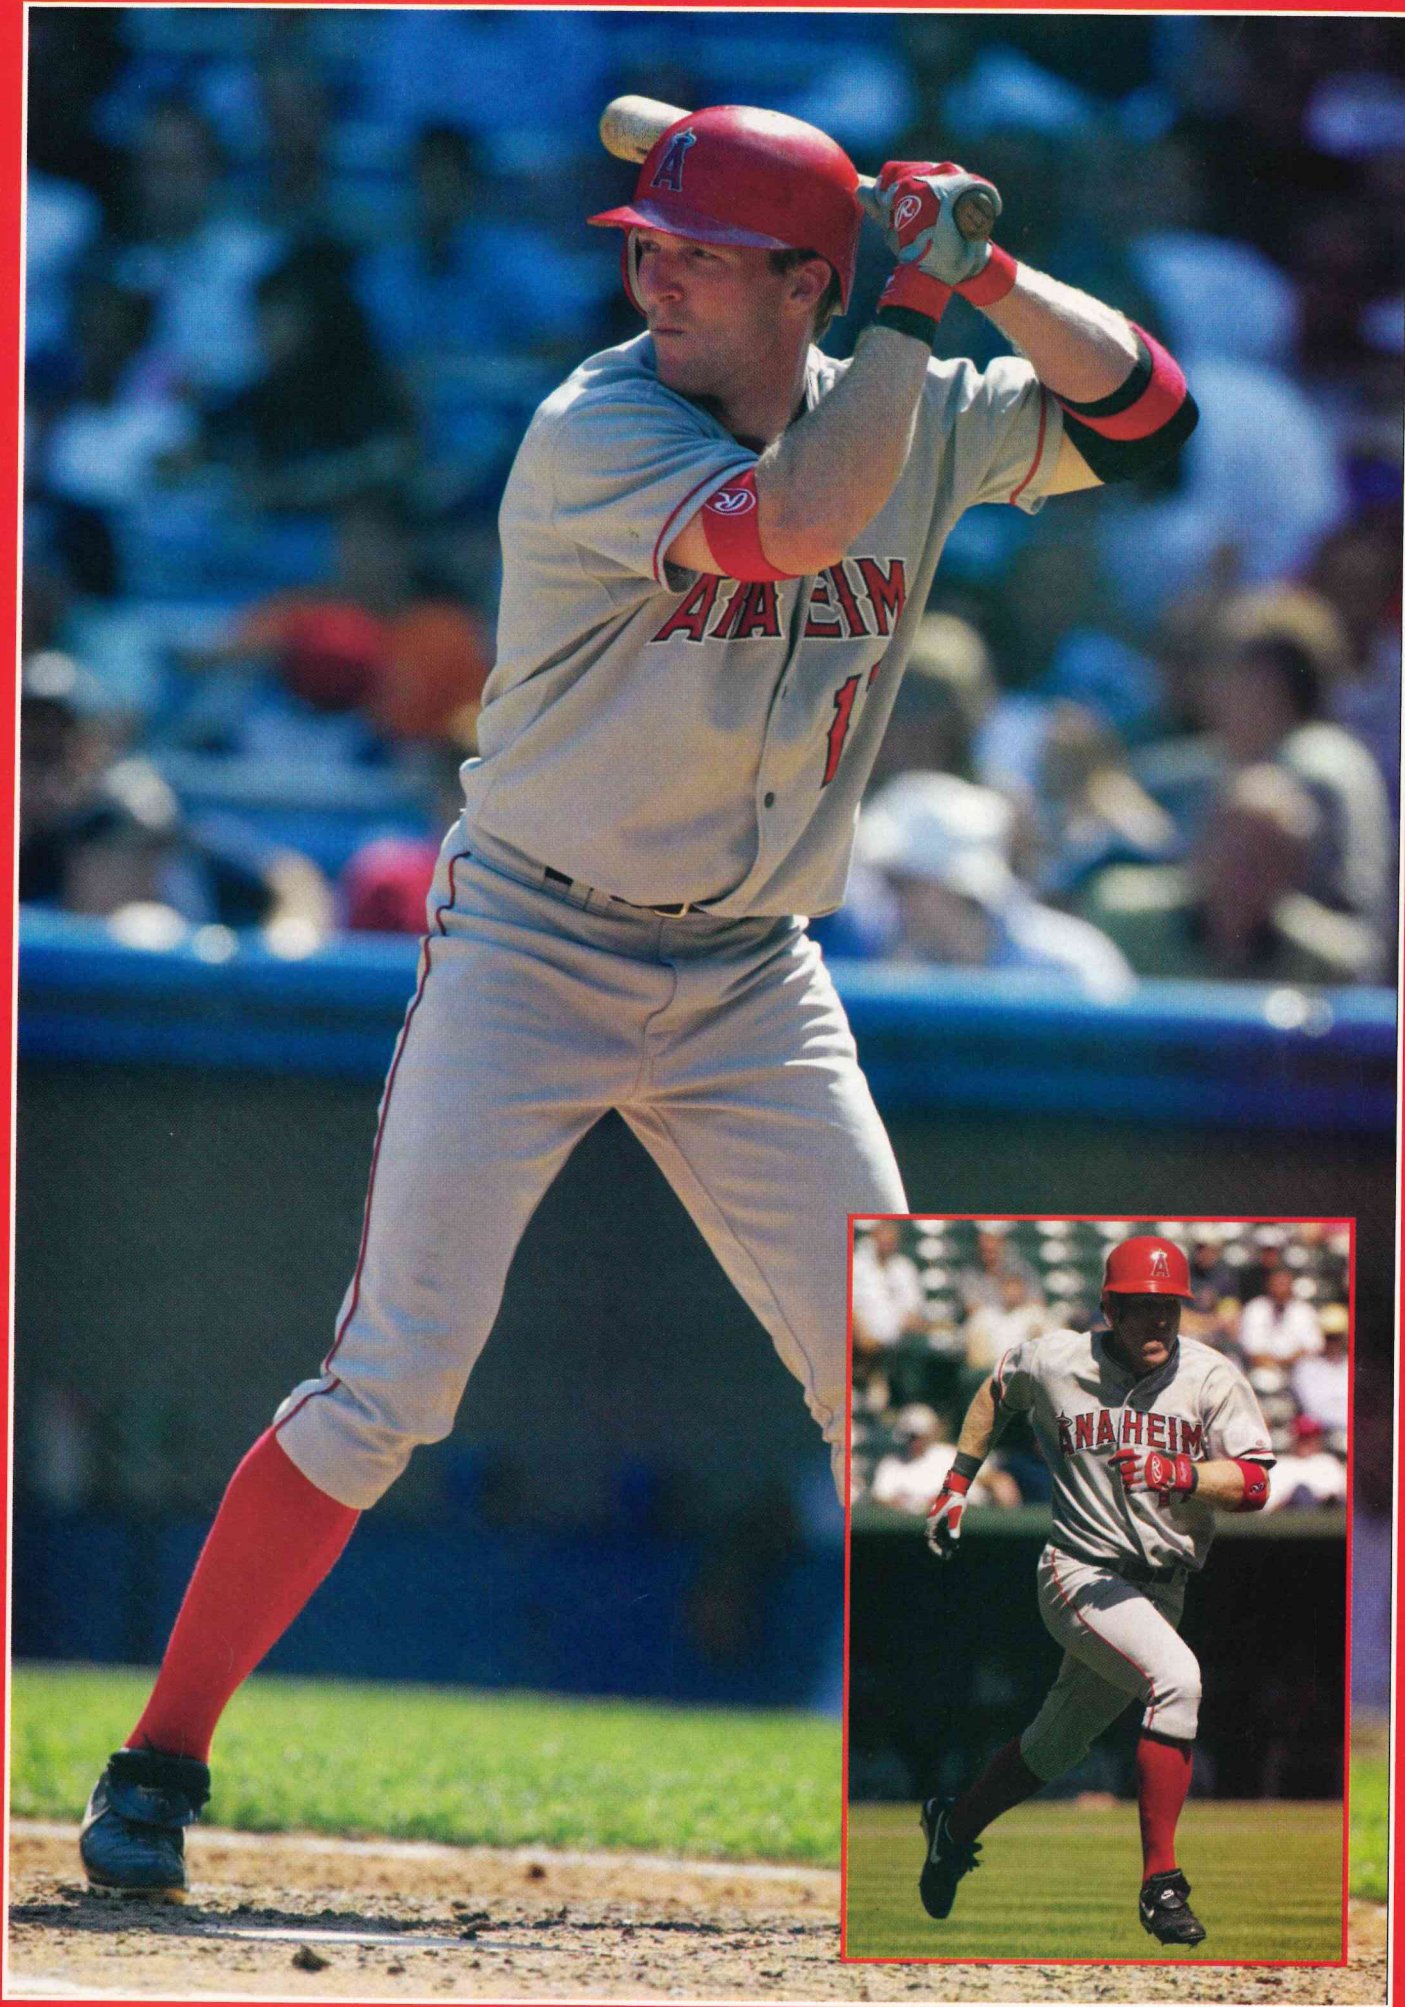

MLB Debut: 06/14/96

2002 Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
150	625	99	177	28	4	10	73	243	27	67	23	.389	.283

Career Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
935	3801	610	1107	202	24	96	468	1645	311	555	134	.433	.291

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

Bringing Kevin Appier over from the Mets and moving the large salary of Mo Vaughn was a major step for the Angels in bringing balance to their team on and off the field. Appier stepped up as a steady influence on a young pitching staff, posting 14 wins and an ERA under 4.00 in his return to the American League. Appier doesn't always get the respect of a front line starter, but has an excellent career record of 161 wins against 127 losses and a 3.65 ERA.

KEVIN APPIER #27 P

Full name: Robert Kevin Appier

Born: 12/06/67

Birthplace: Lancaster, CA

Height: 6'2"

Weight: 200

Position: P

Bats: Right

Throws: Right

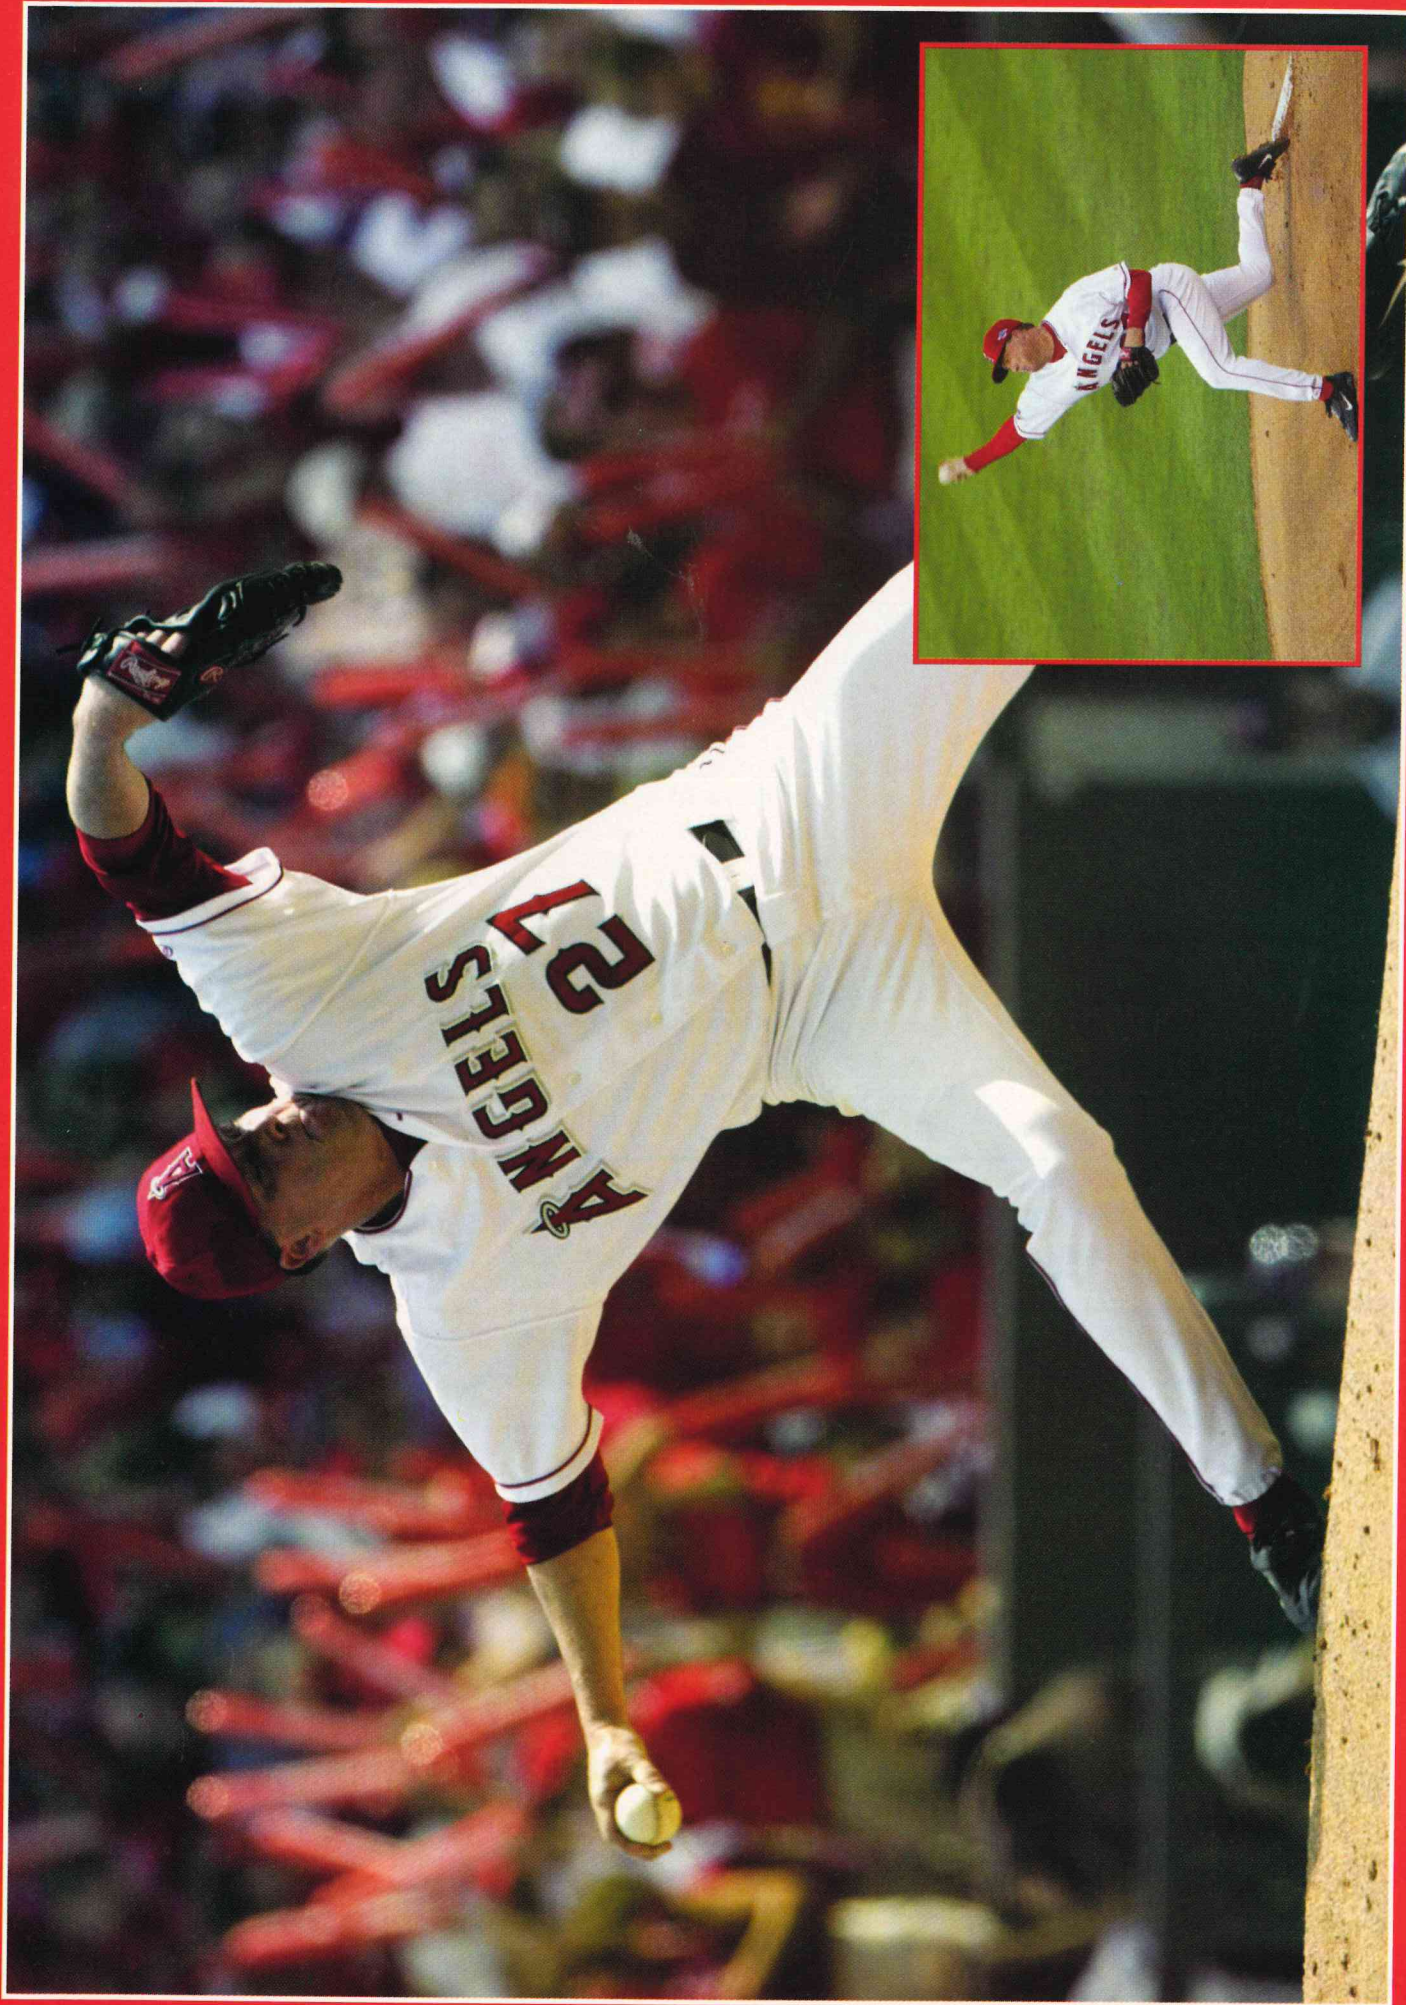

MLB Debut: 06/14/89

2002 Pitching Stats:

W	L	ERA	G	GS	CG	SHO	SV	SVO	IP	H	R	ER	BB	SO
14	12	3.92	32	32	0	0	0	---	188.1	191	89	82	64	132

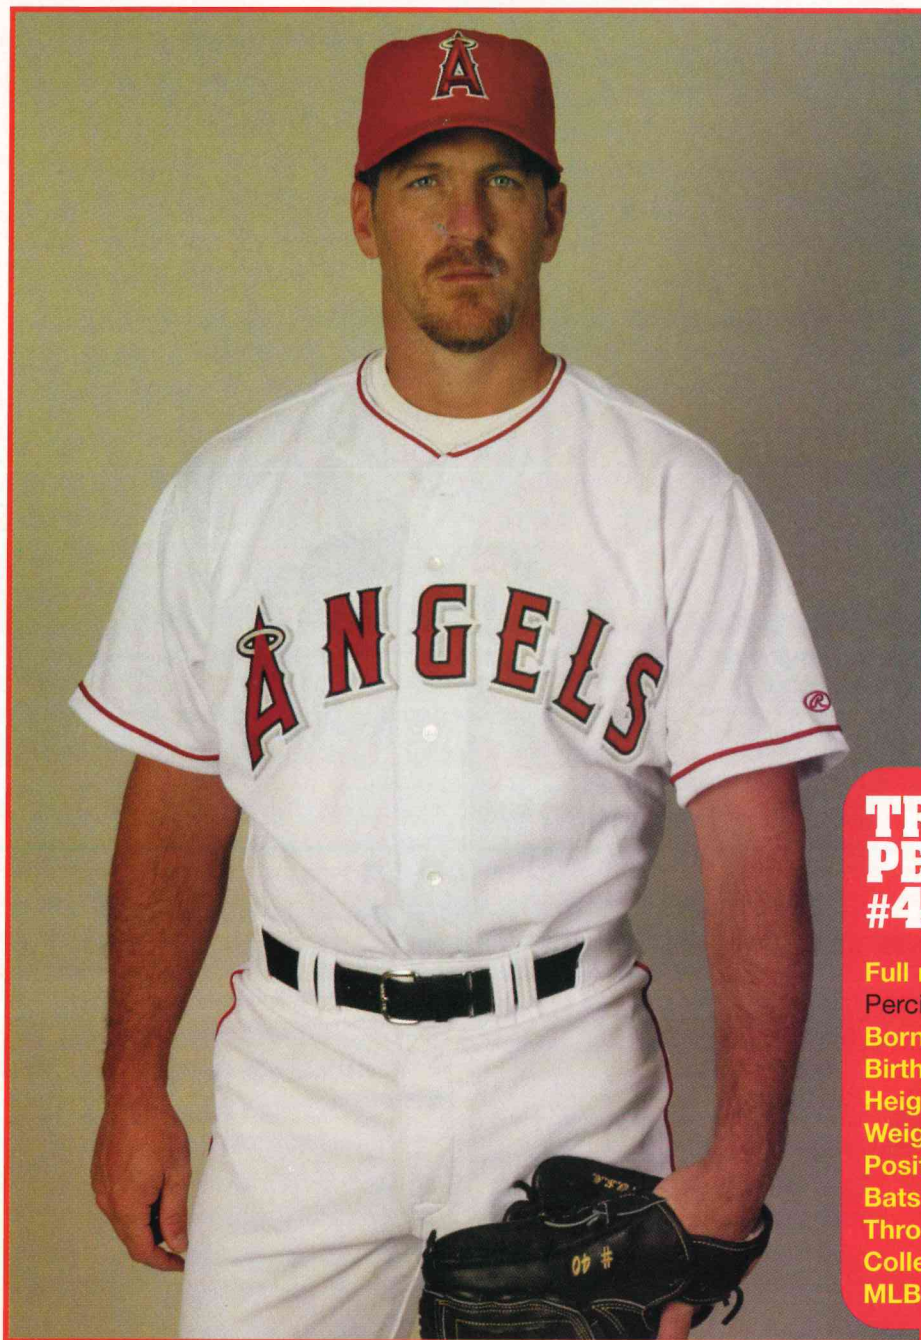

Career Pitching Stats:

W	L	ERA	G	GS	CG	SHO	SV	SVO	IP	H	R	ER	BB	SO
161	127	3.65	389	377	34	12	0	---	2479.2	2298	1091	1005	887	1937

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

As a lifetime Angel, Troy Percival has been waiting his whole career to show the world (and not just hardcore baseball fans) that he's one of the best closers in the game. This flame thrower is as intimidating a force as there is in the majors and could someday go down as the greatest Angel in their history. Often in the hot seat Percival has averaged over 35 saves per season during the last seven while keeping his career ERA under 3.00, with a sparking 1.92 ERA in 2002.

TROY PERCIVAL #40 P

Full name: Troy Eugene Percival

Born: 08/09/69

Birthplace: Fontana, CA

Height: 6'3"

Weight: 236

Position: P

Bats: Right

Throws: Right

College: Cal Riverside

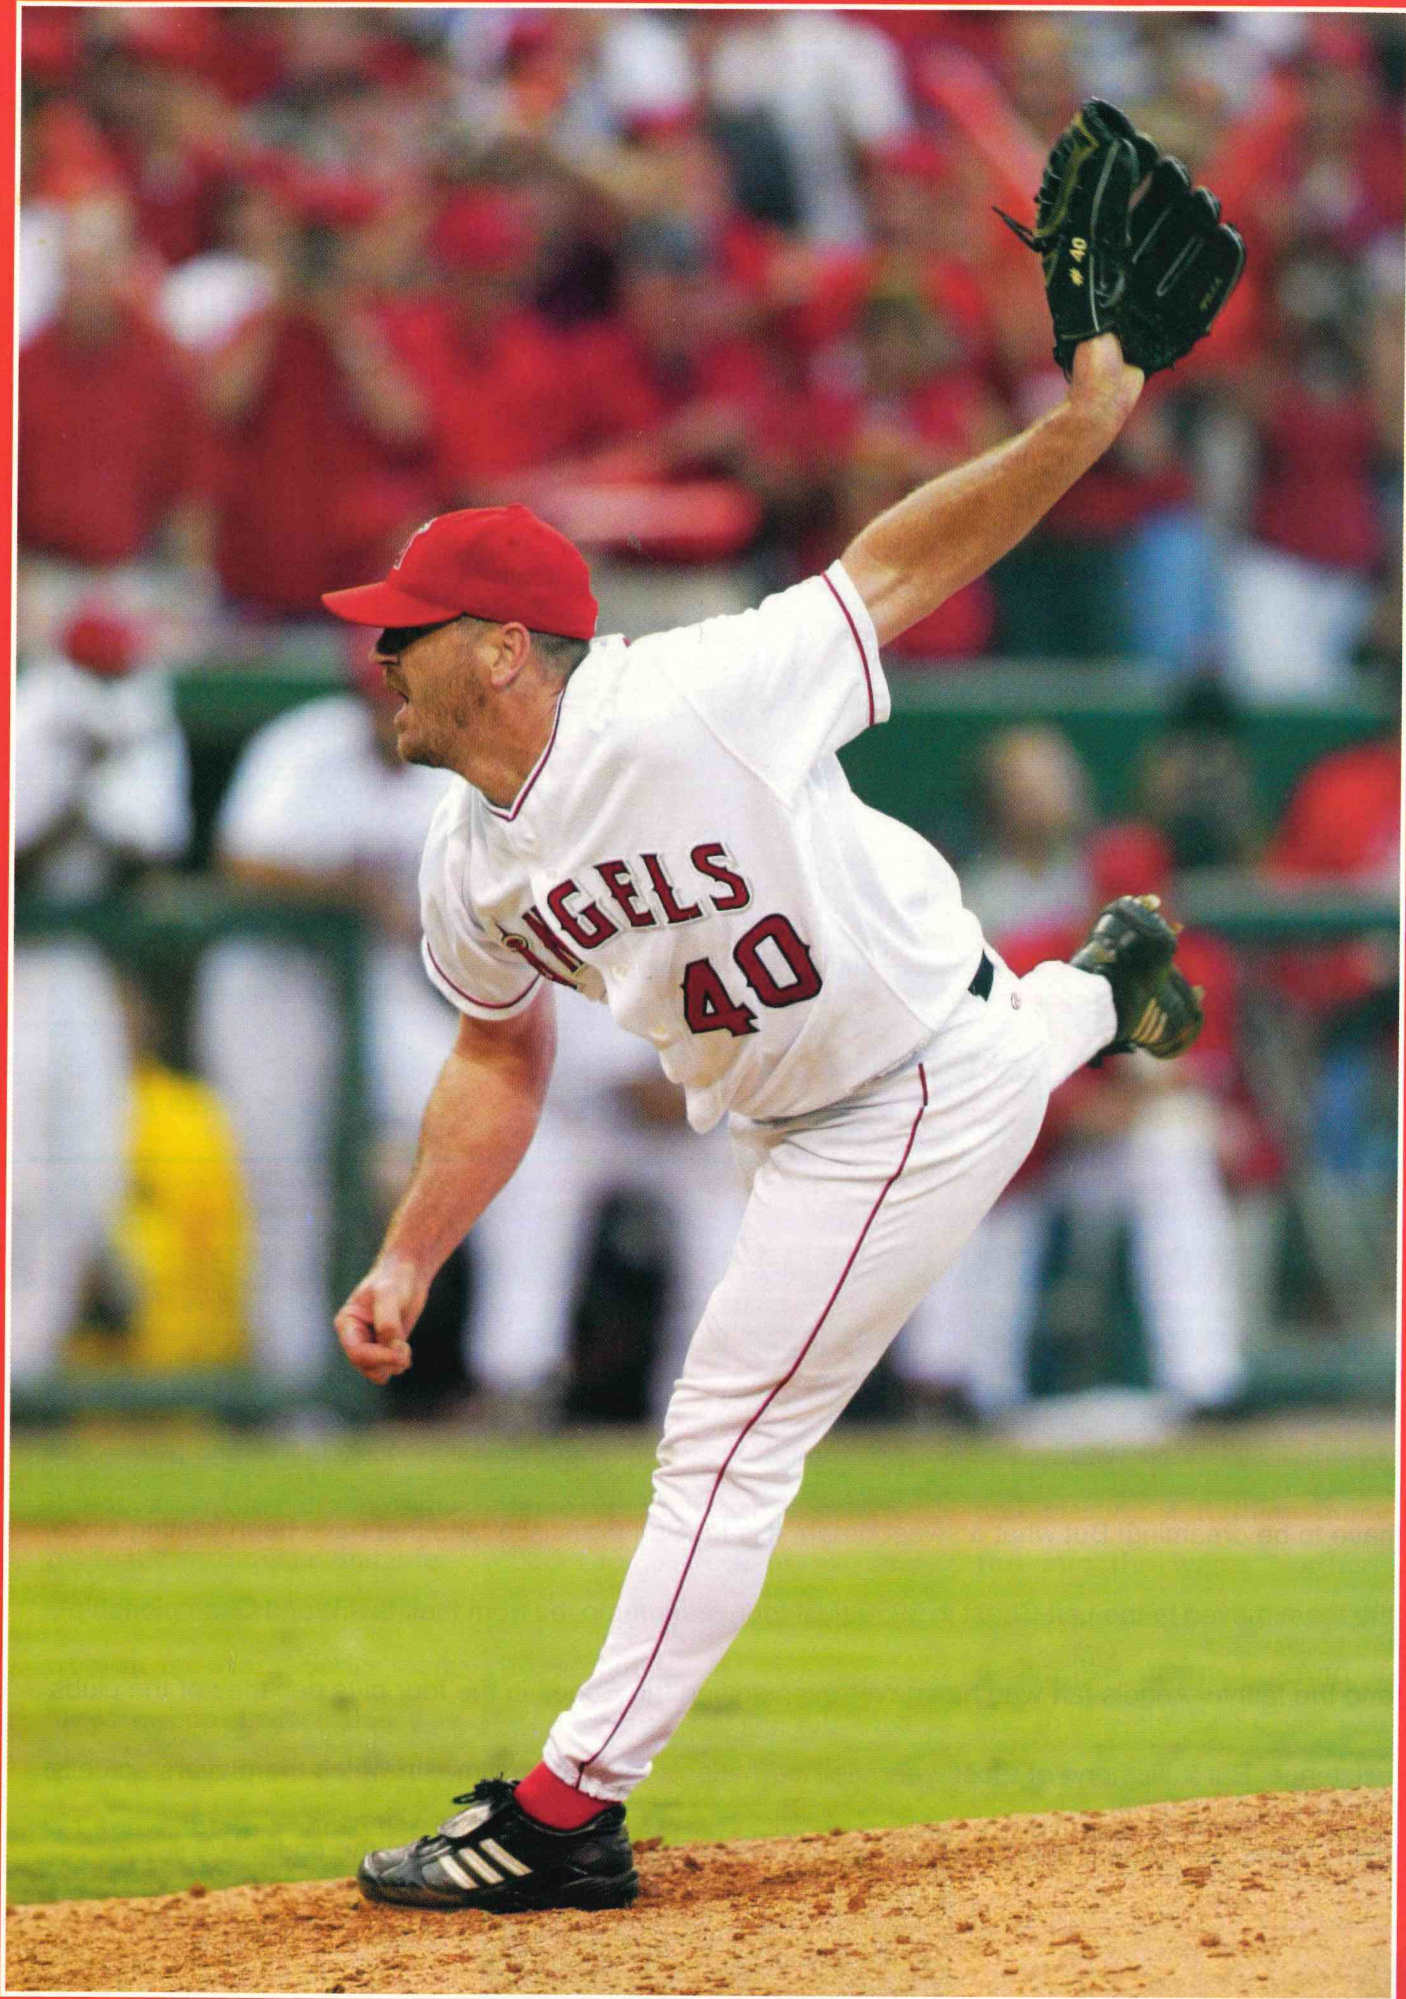

MLB Debut: 04/26/95

2002 Pitching Stats:

W	L	ERA	G	GS	CG	SHO	SV	SVO	IP	H	R	ER	BB	SO
4	1	1.92	58	0	0	0	40	44	56.1	38	12	12	25	68

Career Pitching Stats:

W	L	ERA	G	GS	CG	SHO	SV	SVO	IP	H	R	ER	BB	SO
27	30	2.95	475	0	0	0	250	---	487.2	317	172	160	211	599

California Dreamin'

West Coast Baseball Takes Center Stage

An all California World Series in 2002 and it doesn't involve the Oakland A's or the Dodgers? You have to be dreaming! But what a sweet dream it is for San Francisco fans that have been waiting since the team moved to the Left Coast in 1958 (just four years removed from their last World Championship), and the faithful Angels fan who has never even sniffed the Series in the four plus decades of the clubs existence. But it was one of those years for the nation's favorite pastime, in which the players actually didn't strike, the owners didn't contract and everything seemed to work out in the end.

This was a World Series with California all over it—from the two former Dodgers players managing their respective Angels and Giants squads to the monster blasts off the bats from the likes of Barry

California collision in October, with the Giants falling to the Oakland A's in four games. But a four game sweep wouldn't be right this time around, especially when two unlikely teams, and the most disliked player in grinding out a single or working a walk looking like a little leaguer out of Angels in the outfield. You can call Barry Bonds matching up against the power throwing Troy Percival in the ninth inning of Game 2

Bonds and Tim Salmon, who made the earthquake that interrupted the last time the Giants were in the World Series seem like a hiccup. In fact, that was the last occasion that the Golden State hosted a baseball put baseball on their backs for a week or two and made the most of their moment in the sun.

Dreamy? You can call it that watching the tiny (by pro-athlete standards) David Eckstein and blasting a Ruthian home run into the warm Northern California night a magical, dream-like moment. And if you live on the East Coast you may have really been dreaming during most of the games since they were primarily played in the middle of the night.

Before the memorable (only for an earthquake) A's/Giants series in 1989 there were two all California Series. The Dodgers beat the A's in five games in the 88' Series, and in 1974 the Oakland A's vanquished the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 to complete a three-peat that wouldn't be duplicated until the Yankees 1998-2000 run. But this was a real series to remember, with all the fixings, to keep West Coast baseball fans buzzing with anticipation for next year. Of course one group of fans will be waiting for opening day so they can finally enjoy watching a World Series banner hanging for the first time in their own ballpark, and the others left with that old baseball saying wafting off their lips and hanging in the air all winter long..."Wait until next year!."

2002

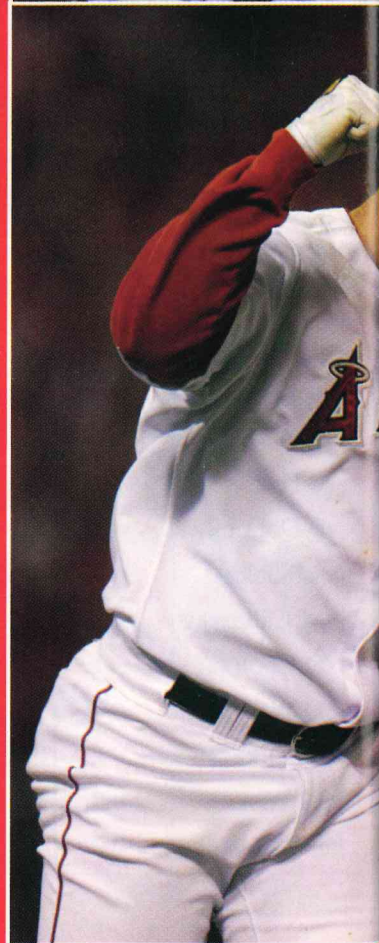

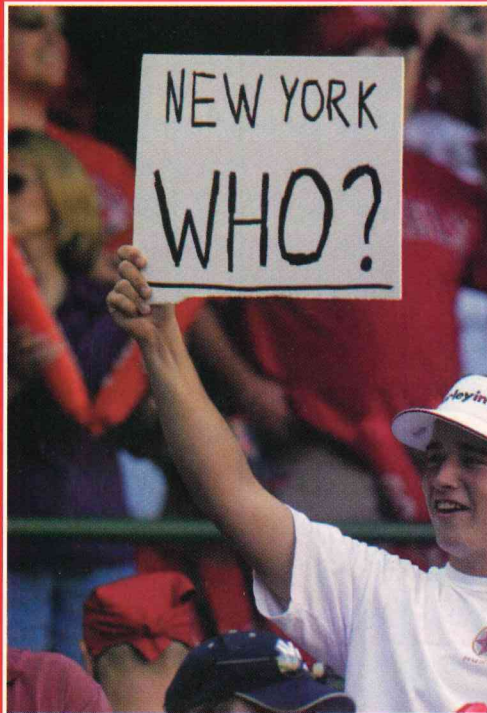

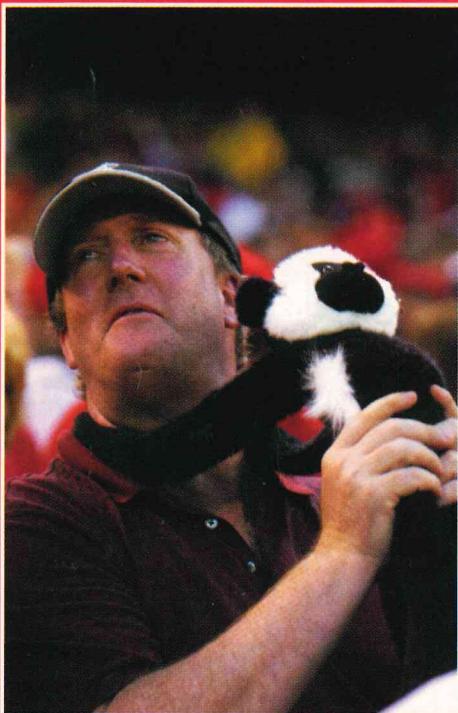

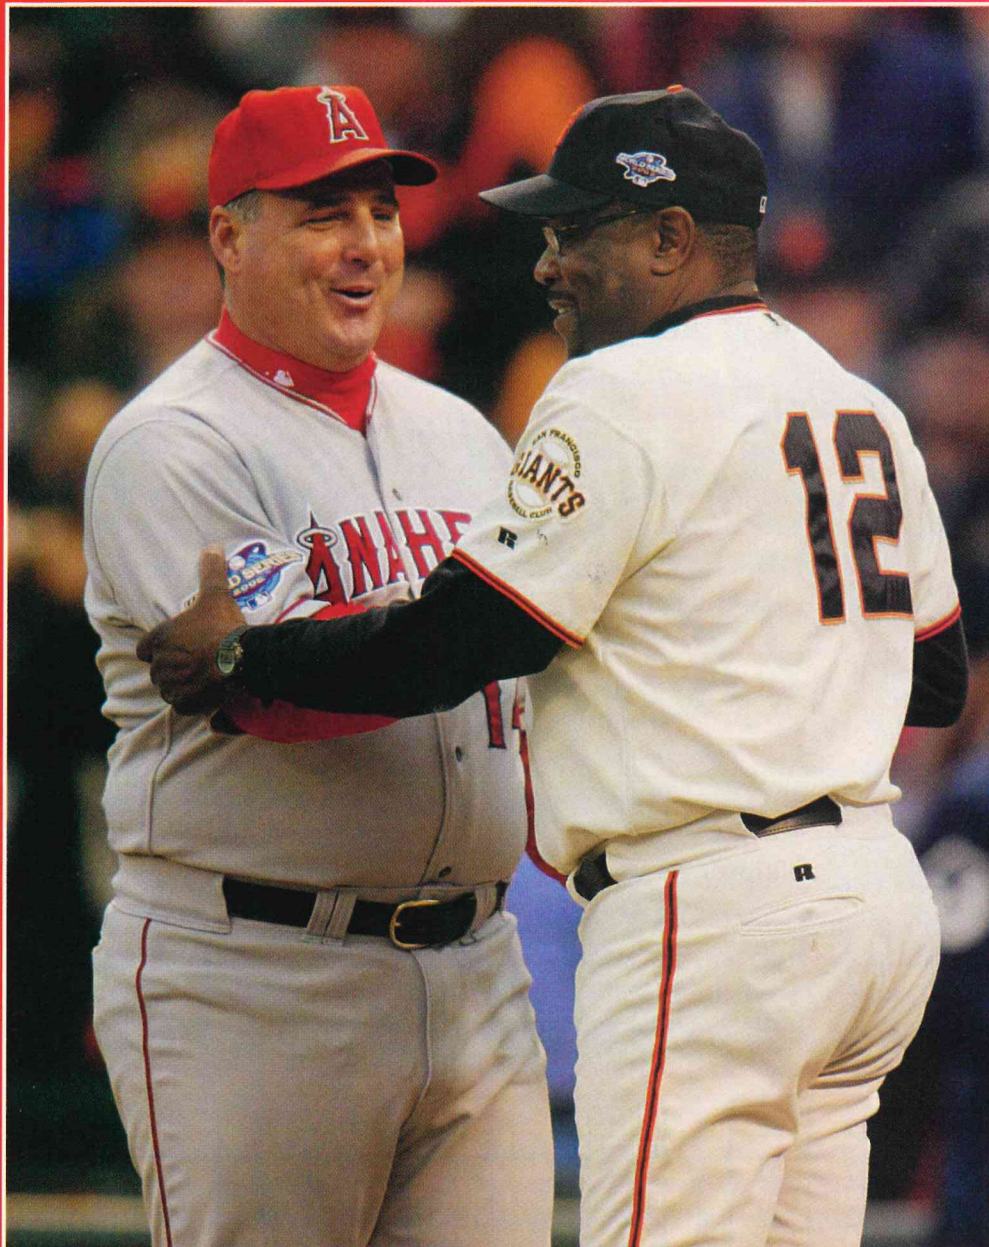

ANAHEIM ANGELS

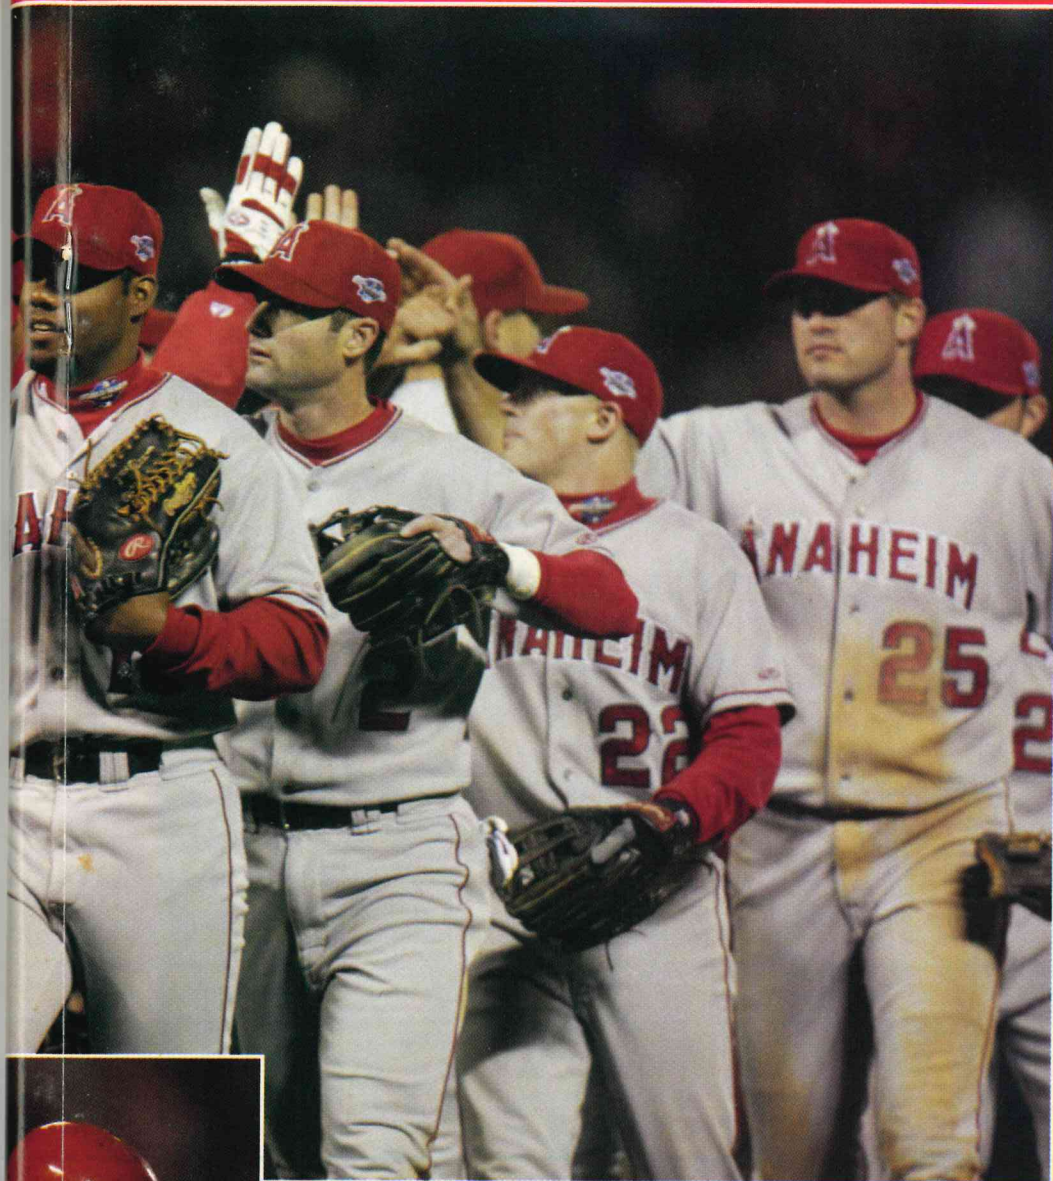

COMPLETE PLAYER STATISTICS

Player	G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
G Anderson	158	638	93	195	56	3	29	123	30	80	6	.539	.306
D Erstad	150	625	99	177	28	4	10	73	27	67	23	.389	.283
D Eckstein	152	608	107	178	22	6	8	63	45	44	21	.388	.293
T Glaus	156	569	99	142	24	1	30	111	88	144	10	.453	.250
S Spiezio	153	491	80	140	34	2	12	82	67	52	6	.436	.285
T Salmon	138	483	84	138	37	1	22	88	71	102	6	.503	.286
A Kennedy	144	474	65	148	32	6	7	52	19	80	17	.449	.312
B Fullmer	129	429	75	124	35	6	19	59	31	44	10	.531	.289
B Molina	122	428	34	105	18	0	5	47	15	34	0	.322	.245
O Palmeiro	110	263	35	79	12	1	0	31	30	22	7	.354	.300
B Gil	61	130	11	37	8	1	3	20	5	33	2	.431	.285
S Wooten	49	113	13	33	8	0	3	19	7	24	2	.442	.292
J Nieves	45	97	17	28	2	0	0	6	2	14	1	.309	.289
J Fabregas	35	88	8	17	1	0	0	8	6	6	0	.205	.193
J Molina	29	70	5	19	3	0	0	5	5	15	0	.314	.271
A Ochoa	37	65	8	18	7	0	2	10	10	5	2	.477	.277
J Ramirez	29	32	6	9	0	1	1	7	2	14	0	.438	.281
J DaVanon	16	30	3	5	3	0	1	4	2	6	1	.367	.167
A Amezaga	12	13	3	7	2	0	0	2	0	1	1	.692	.538
C Figgins	15	12	6	2	1	0	0	1	0	5	2	.250	.167
R Ortiz	2	7	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	0	.000	.000
J Washburn	2	5	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	3	0	.200	.200
K Appier	2	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	.000	.000
S.Schoeneweis	2	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	.000	.000
A Sele	1	2	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	.500	.500
C Bellinger	2	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	.000	.000
S Fasano	2	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	.000	.000
D Cook	4	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	.000	.000
B Donnelly	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	.000	.000
A Levine	5	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	.000	.000
T Percival	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	.000	.000
L Pote	4	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	.000	.000
S Shields	3	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	.000	.000
B Weber	3	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	.000	.000

Player	W	L	ERA	G	GS	CG	SHO	SV	IP	H	R	BB	SO
R Ortiz	15	9	3.77	32	32	4	1	0	217.1	188	97	68	162
J Washburn	18	6	3.15	32	32	1	0	0	206.0	183	75	59	139
K Appier	14	12	3.92	32	32	0	0	0	188.1	191	89	64	132
A Sele	8	9	4.89	26	26	1	1	0	160.0	190	92	49	82
S Schoeneweis	9	8	4.88	54	15	0	0	1	118.0	119	68	49	65
J Lackey	9	4	3.66	18	18	1	0	0	108.1	113	52	33	69
B Weber	7	2	2.54	63	0	0	0	7	78.0	70	25	22	43
A Levine	4	4	4.24	52	0	0	0	5	63.2	61	35	34	40
T Percival	4	1	1.92	58	0	0	0	40	56.1	38	12	25	68
L Pote	0	2	3.22	31	0	0	0	0	50.1	33	20	26	32
B Donnelly	1	1	2.17	46	0	0	0	1	49.2	32	13	19	54
S Shields	5	3	2.20	29	1	0	0	0	49.0	31	13	21	30
M Callaway	2	1	4.19	6	6	0	0	0	34.1	31	20	11	3
D Cook	1	1	3.38	37	0	0	0	0	24.0	21	9	10	13
D Wall ANA	0	0	6.43	17	0	0	0	0	21.0	17	15	7	13
M Lukasiewicz	2	0	3.86	17	0	0	0	0	14.0	17	6	9	15
M Wise	0	0	3.24	7	0	0	0	0	8.1	7	3	1	6
F Rodriguez	0	0	0.00	5	0	0	0	0	5.2	3	0	2	13

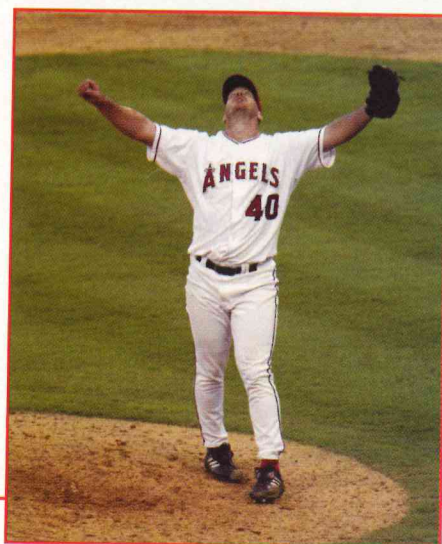

The American League Championship Series

The Angels' Bats Slice The Twins In Two

The Angels weren't supposed to be there, but they faced the mighty New York Yankees, and defeated them in a best of five. The Twins weren't even supposed to exist, but this was a year for the underdogs of baseball to prove the experts wrong, and remind everyone that baseball is still a game, not just a business, that's played between the lines. The Twins had earned their spot in the ALCS by defeating a powerhouse Oakland A's team, and now would have to get past the Angels to make it to the World Series. A tall order when you look up and down the Angels red-hot lineup and realize that their isn't an easy out in sight.

The Minnesota Twins, energized by fifty-five thousand run scored on a Corey Koskie double. Fabulous pitching from Mays and closer Eddie Guardado sealed the deal for the surging Twins. Fans had expected a slug-fest and ended up seeing a pitchers' duel, but they wouldn't have to wait long until the October fireworks started up again.

The Twins entered Game 2 feeling invincible in the Metrodome, and sent Rick Reed to the mound to face the Angels' Ramon Ortiz. The Angels had other plans however, and jumped all over Reed in the first two innings to stake their pitcher to a four run lead—thanks to a Darin Erstad home run and timely hitting from Scott Spiezio and David Eckstein. Fulmer, the Angels DH, would add to the lead in the sixth with a two run homer, giving the Angels the breathing room to weather the three run sixth the Twins put together. The score would stay that way for the remainder of the game as reliever Francisco Rodriguez and Troy Percival were able to close the door cleanly while evening up the series going back home to Anaheim.

screaming fans and the fine pitching of their Game 1 starter Joe Mays, crept out to a one run lead in the second inning when Torii Hunter, who had reached base on a double, scored on a sacrifice fly. The Angels would strike back quickly, thanks to a Minnesota error, but would be held scoreless for the rest of the game and fall to the Twins 2-1 on the strength of a fifth inning

With the series tied at one piece, Anaheim fans had the chance to make some noise and were a factor as the Twins were shut down for most of the game by the Angels' staff ace Jarro Washburn. Eric Milton was equally effective for the Twins but made a mistake to Garret Anderson who took him deep to right in the second inning to put the Angels out in front. The Twins would come back to score in the seventh as Dustan

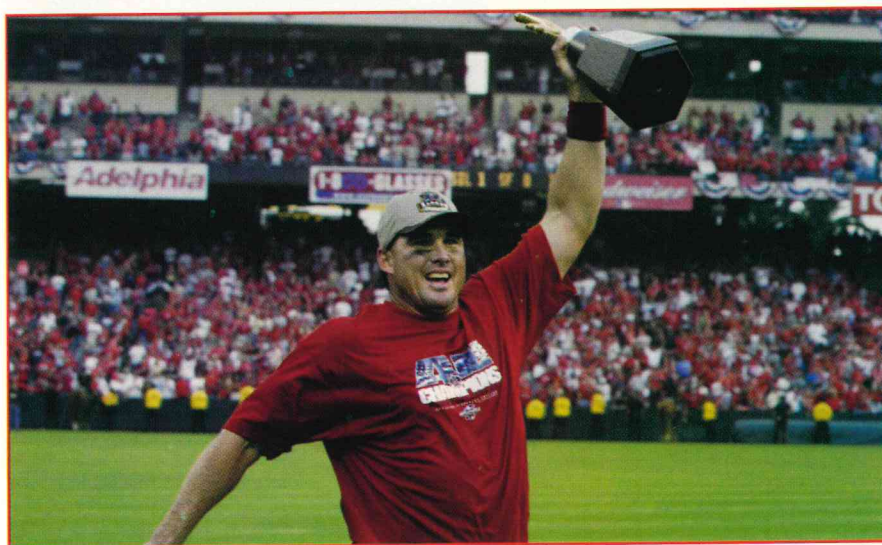

Mohr crossed the plate on a double to left by Jacque Jones. The pressure was now on the Angels and their power hitters, who had been shut down for much of the game. Once again it was Troy Glaus that answered the calling for the Angels, as he hit the ball over the wall in right center for what would be the game winning run in the bottom of the eighth inning. Anaheim was finding that they had a bullpen that they could depend on in a tight spot as the rookie, Rodriguez, and the stopper, Percival, slammed the door shut in the last two innings.

By now it seemed that there was little that could stop the rally monkey out in Southern California, which kept willing the Anaheim Angels forward into the playoffs. But the Angels needed no rally with another rookie hurler, John Lackey, on the mound, as he out dueled Minnesota's Brad Radke through six and a half scoreless innings. The bottom of the seventh was huge for the Angels, as ALDS hero Troy Glaus broke the ice with an RBI single, followed by a big double from Scott Spiezio. In the eighth, Anaheim manager Mike Scioscia didn't hesitate to hand the ball over to his other green pitcher, Francisco Rodriguez, who once again pitched well before passing the torch to fellow reliever Ben Weber in the ninth, with the Angels leading 7-0. With the order heating up and beginning to break down Minnesota pitching, it looked like the impossible was nearly in reach for the Angels, who were now one win away from their first World Series.

Going into Game 5 in Anaheim, the excitement in the air at Edison Field was palpable. By no means was this a must win game for the Angels, but they played like there was no tomorrow from the start, and overcame early adversity. The Twins, a club that proved everyone wrong and won their division, as well as their ALDS against the A's, weren't about to go quietly, and jumped out to a two run lead. With Game 1 winner Joe Mays pitching well, the Twins scratched out two runs on a double in the first off the bat of Corey Koskie and a one out single in the second by A.J. Pierzynski that scored Dustan Mohr. Angels pitcher Kevin Appier was able to steady himself as his team picked it up offensively to cut the lead to one on an Adam

Kennedy homer in the third. With Mays wearing down in the fifth, Scott Spiezio and Adam Kennedy (now with four post-season home runs) produced matching round-trippers to put the Angels ahead; but the Twins had an answer again as they jumped back on top in the 7th with three more runs.

If Anaheim fans were worried that the series was heading back to the Metrodome, they didn't have to endure that feeling long. The Angels' bats exploded in a historic seventh inning as they ran off seven more runs to take a commanding 13-5 lead. Once again it was Rodriguez followed by Percival, who found himself at the center of the party on the mound after inducing a pop out to short by pinch-hitter Tom Prince. The game and series were over and the celebration began—the Angels were heading to the World Series for the very first time.

AMERICAN LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

Series Recap

Anaheim Angels Defeat
Minnesota Twins 4-1

GAME 1: Minnesota 2, Anaheim 1

GAME 2: Anaheim 6, Minnesota 3

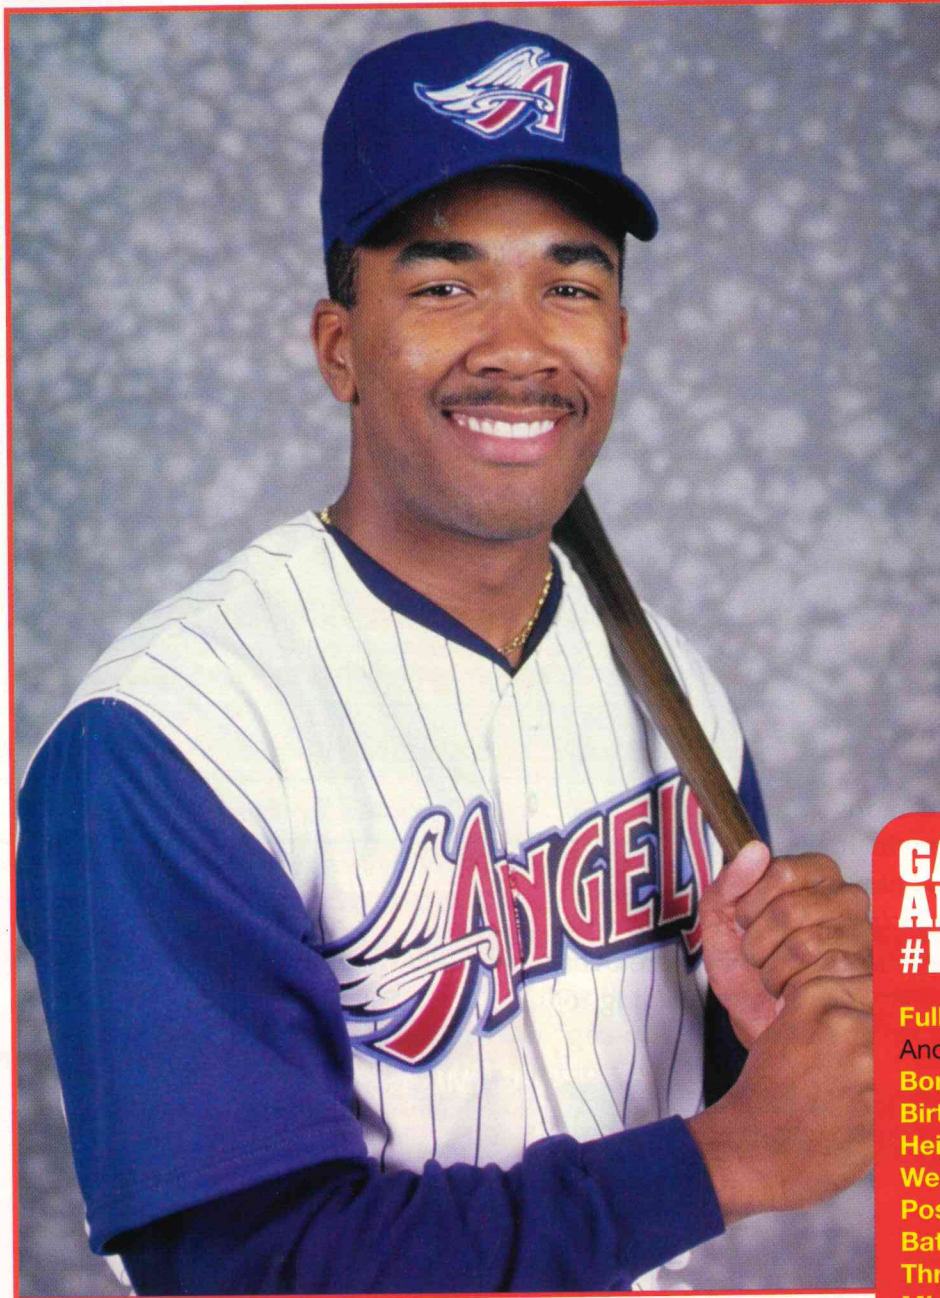

GAME 3: Anaheim 2, Minnesota 1

GAME 4: Anaheim 7, Minnesota 1

GAME 5: Anaheim 13, Minnesota 5

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

Garret Anderson has slowly developed into a legitimate power hitter while maintaining a batting average inching its way toward .300 for his career. Another Angels lifer Garret has finally experienced his season in the sun and watched his stock go through the roof as one of the top left fielders in the American League. Garret established career bests in batting average, total bases, hits, runs and doubles with 56 in 2002.

GARRET ANDERSON #16 LF

Full name: Garret Joseph Anderson
Born: 06/30/72
Birthplace: Los Angeles, CA
Height: 6'3"
Weight: 240
Position: LF
Bats: Left
Throws: Left
MLB Debut: 07/27/94

2002 Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
158	638	93	195	56	3	29	123	344	30	80	6	.539	.306

Career Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
1206	4817	623	1432	300	23	164	756	2270	220	649	60	.471	.297

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

Not since the emergence of Andrew Jones in the 1986 series against the Yankees for the Braves has a rookie as young, and as green as Francisco Rodriguez made such an influence on Major League Baseball. There's not much to analyze out of Rodriguez' major league experience, but everyone in the Angels organization knew that he had the stuff to be a great one. Rodriguez was a force in the playoffs, and nearly untouchable against the Twins and Giants. He'll have a lot to live up to for the rest of his career, but joining a club weeks before they go on a World Series run is something special that none of us will ever forget.

FRANCISCO RODRIGUEZ #27 P

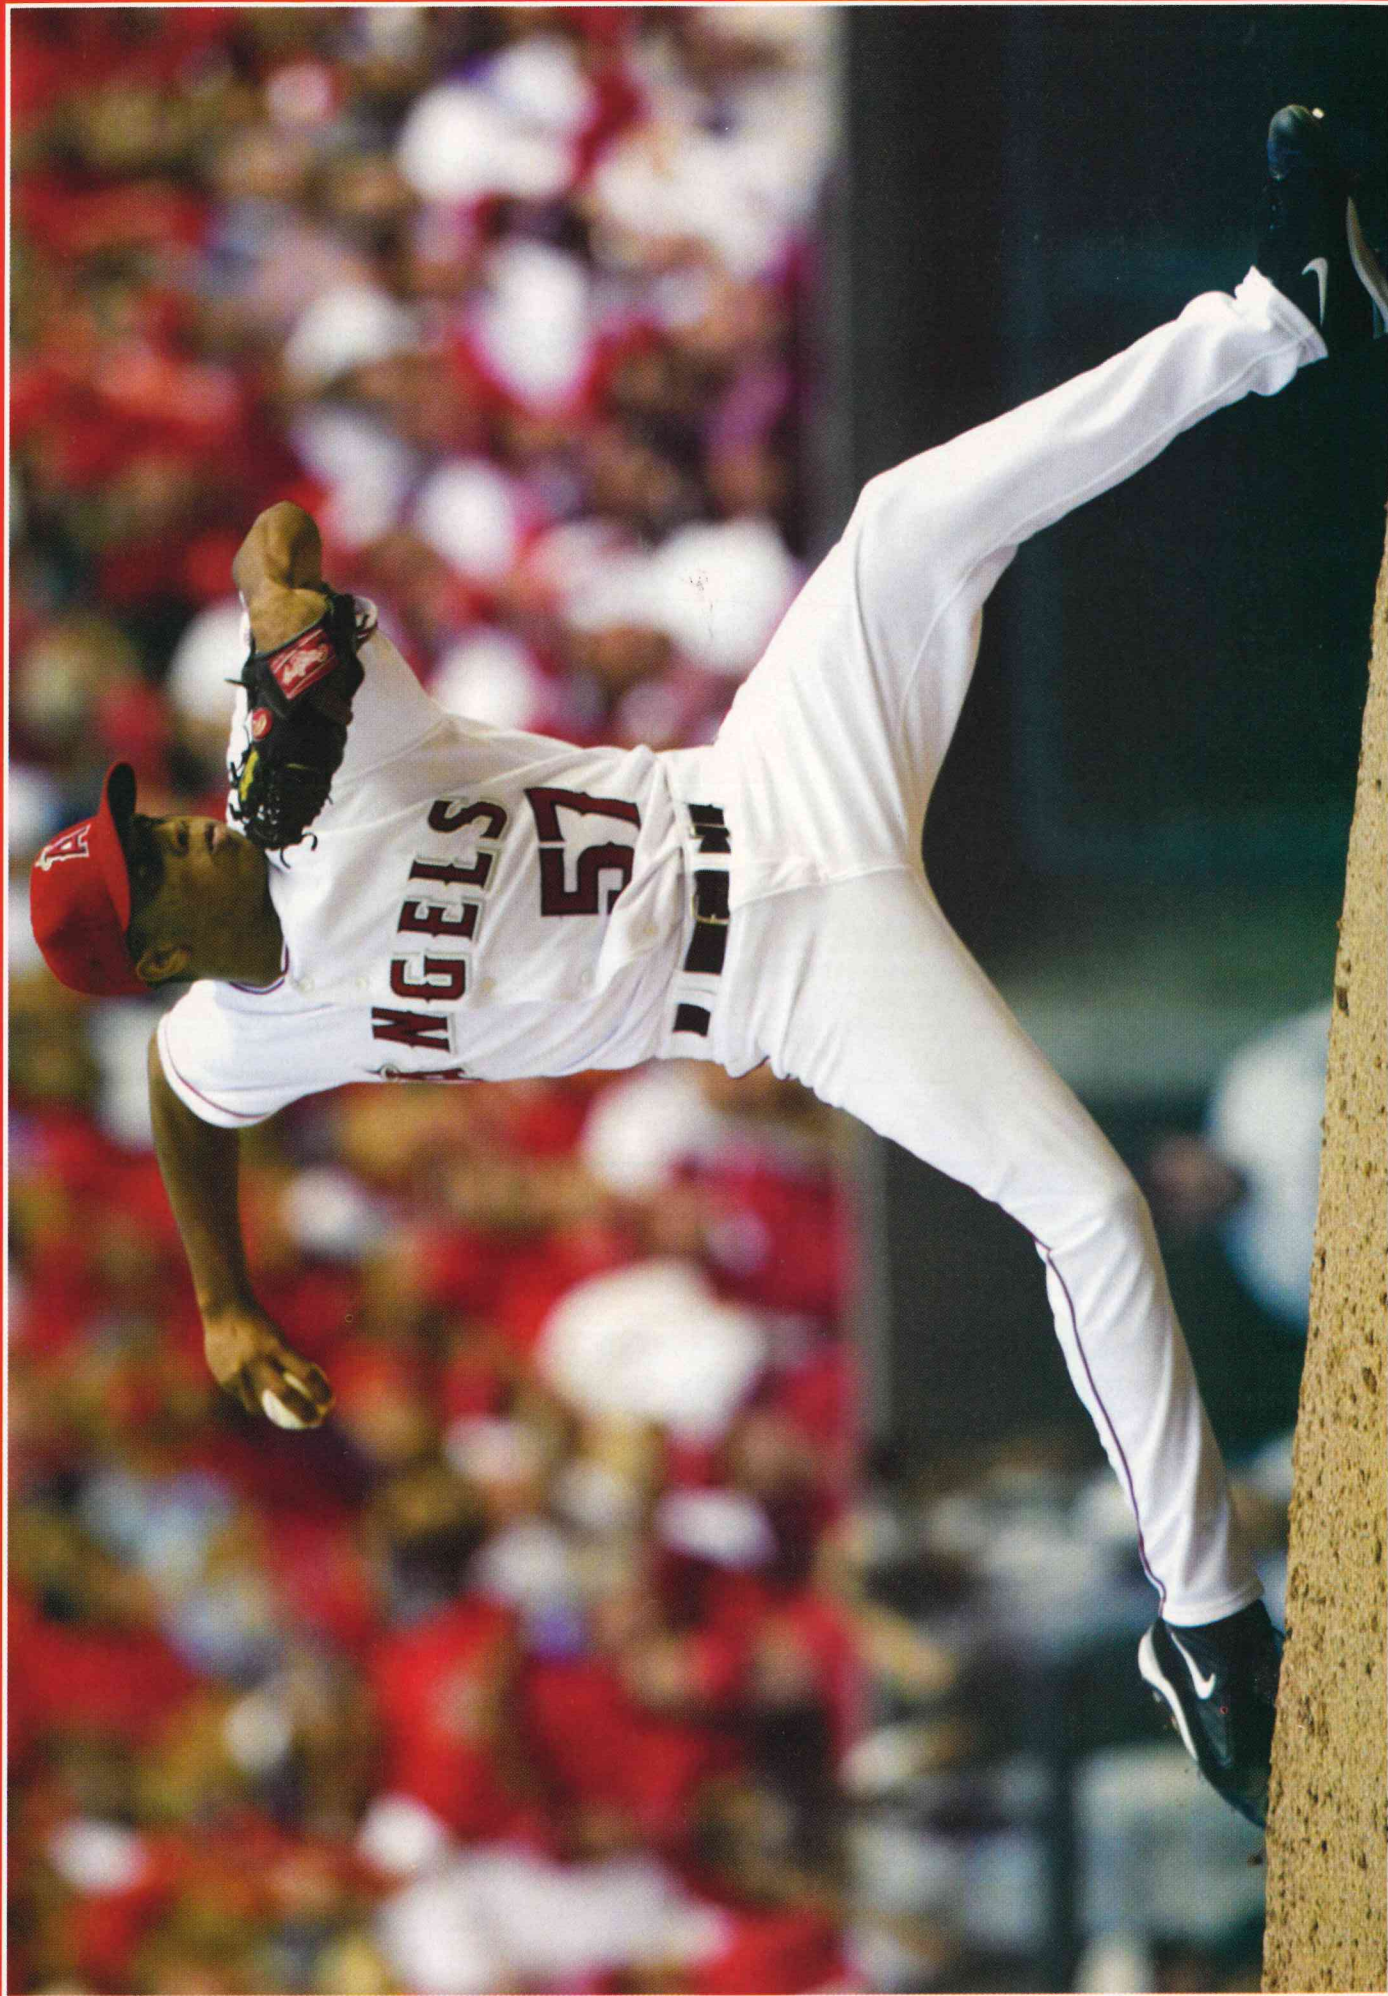

Born: 01/07/82
Birthplace: Caracas, Venezuela
Height: 6'0"
Weight: 165
Position: P
Bats: Right
Throws: Right
MLB Debut: 09/18/02

2002 Pitching Stats:

W	L	ERA	G	GS	CG	SHO	SV	SVO	IP	H	R	ER	BB	SO
0	0	0.00	5	0	0	0	0	--	5.2	3	0	0	2	13

Career Pitching Stats:

W	L	ERA	G	GS	CG	SHO	SV	SVO	IP	H	R	ER	BB	SO
0	0	0.00	5	0	0	0	0	--	5.2	3	0	0	2	13

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

Troy Glaus is a slugger, pure and simple—and one of the most overlooked stars in the game of baseball. Glaus, in his young career, has strung together three straight 100 RBI seasons, with 30 plus homers in each of them. In the playoffs there were few opposing pitchers that were able to keep him in the park, as he got hot early against the Yankees and kept the Angels offense rolling all the way through the World Series. Glaus isn't just a guy who piles up stats, but a clutch hitter whose future in baseball gets brighter each season, especially in the glow of a World Championship run.

TROY GLAUS #25 3B

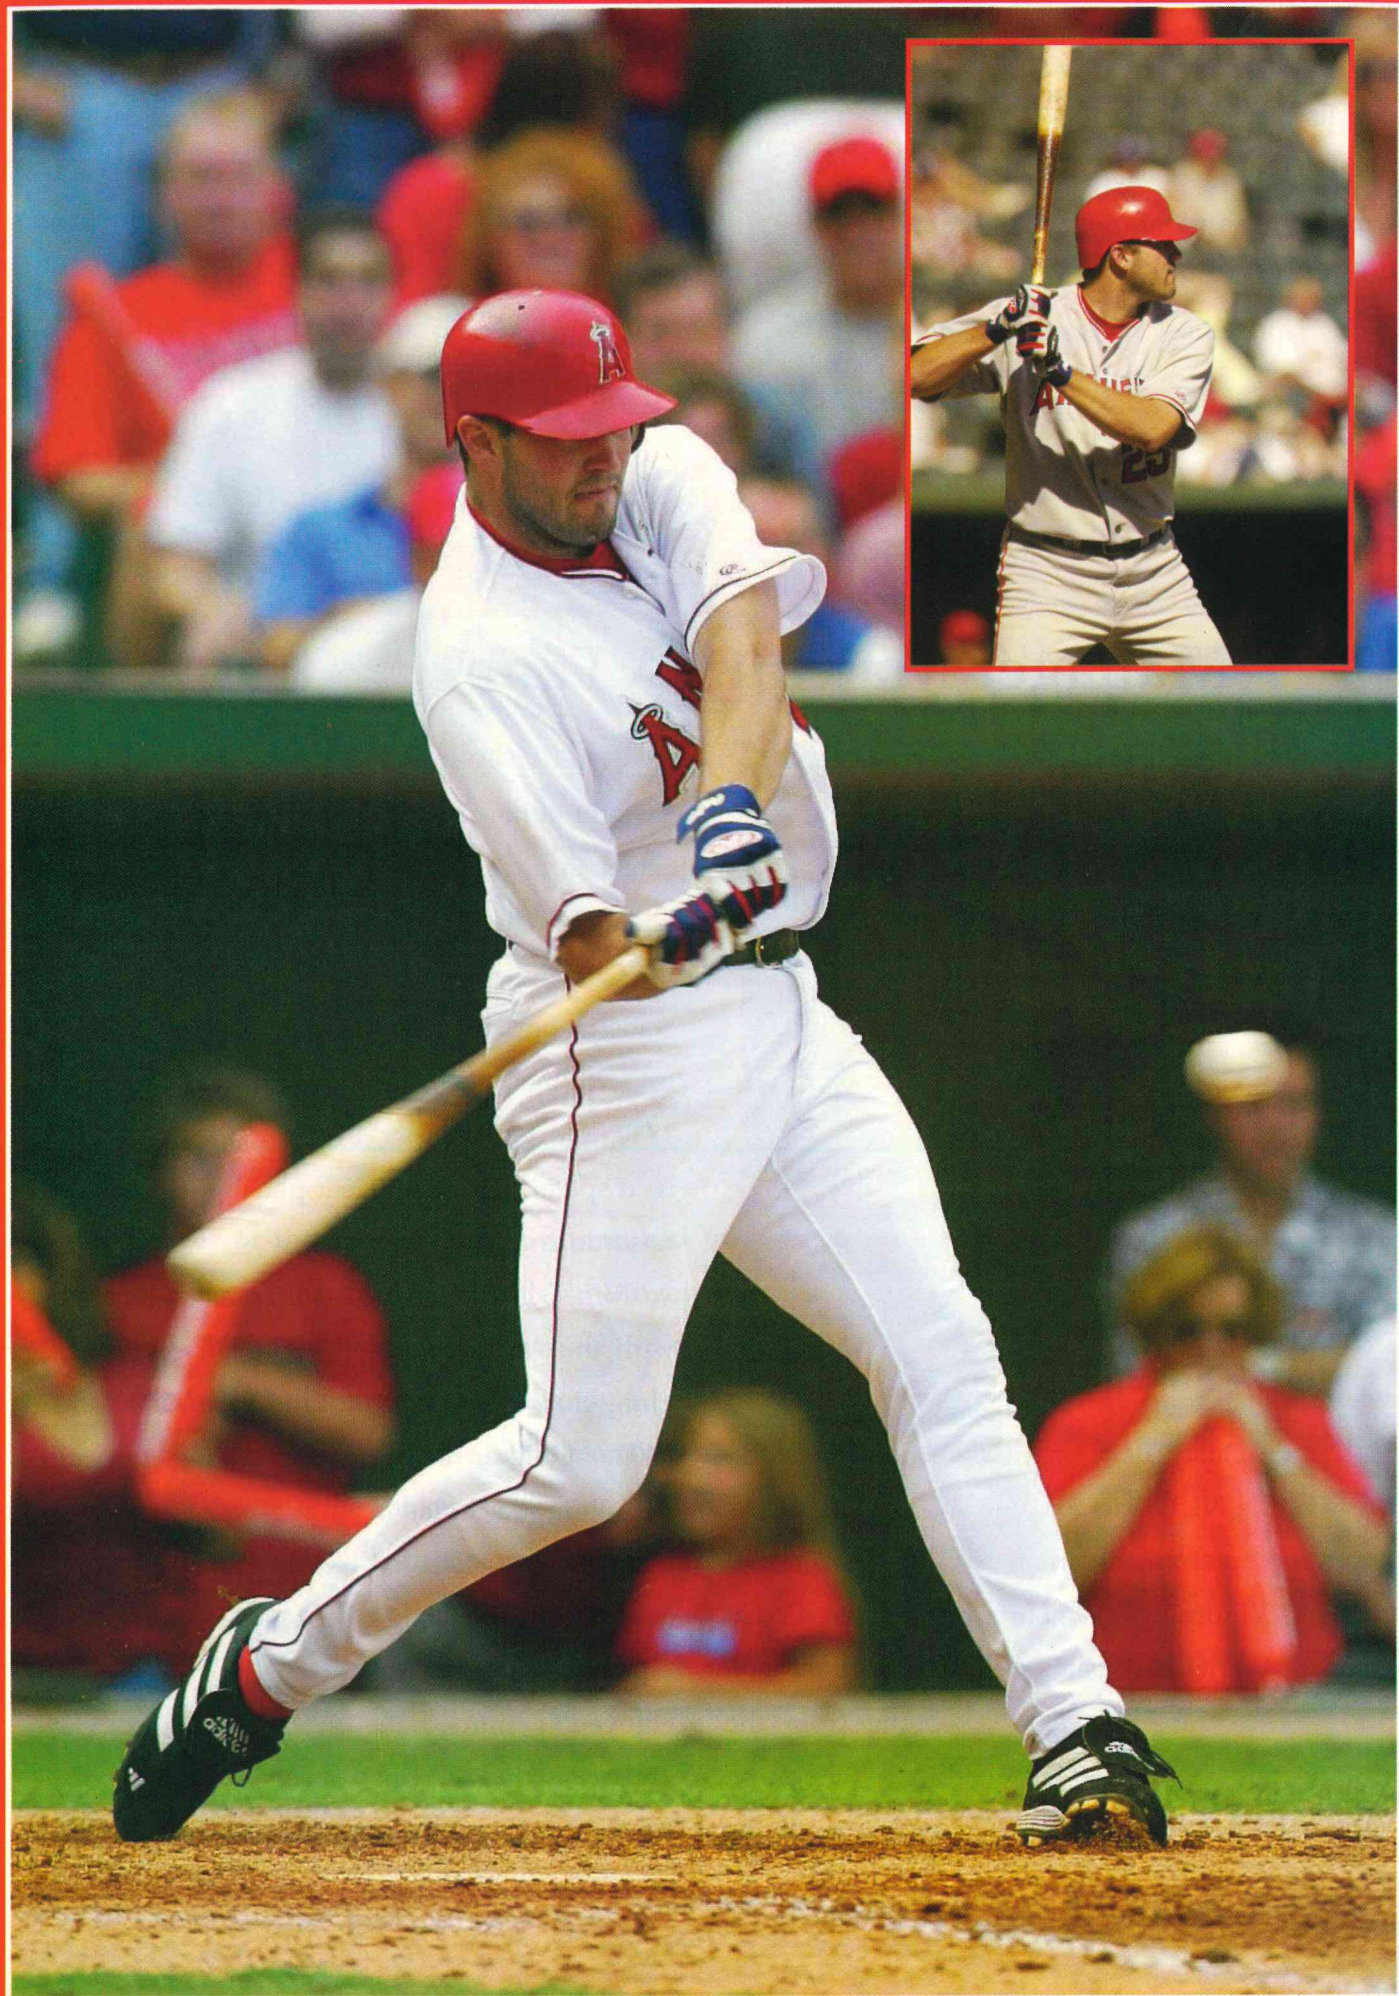

Full name: Troy Edward Glaus
Born: 08/03/76
Birthplace: Newport Beach, CA
Height: 6'5"
Weight: 245
Position: 3B
Bats: Right
Throws: Right
College: UCLA
MLB Debut: 07/31/98

2002 Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
156	569	99	142	24	1	30	111	258	88	144	10	.453	.250

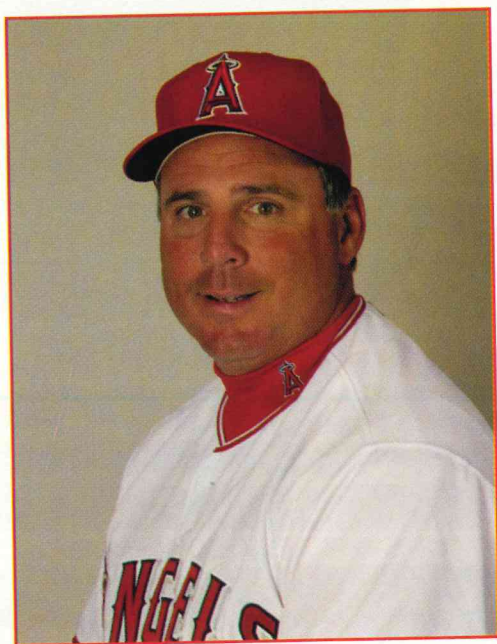

Career Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
678	2436	423	617	137	4	148	423	1206	393	659	40	.495	.253

Baker Vs. Scioscia

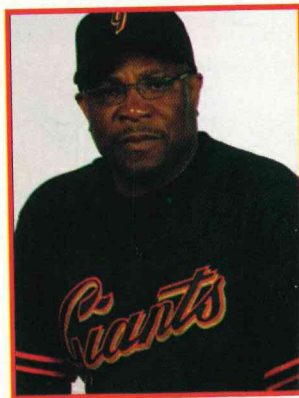

Manager Matchup A Familiar One

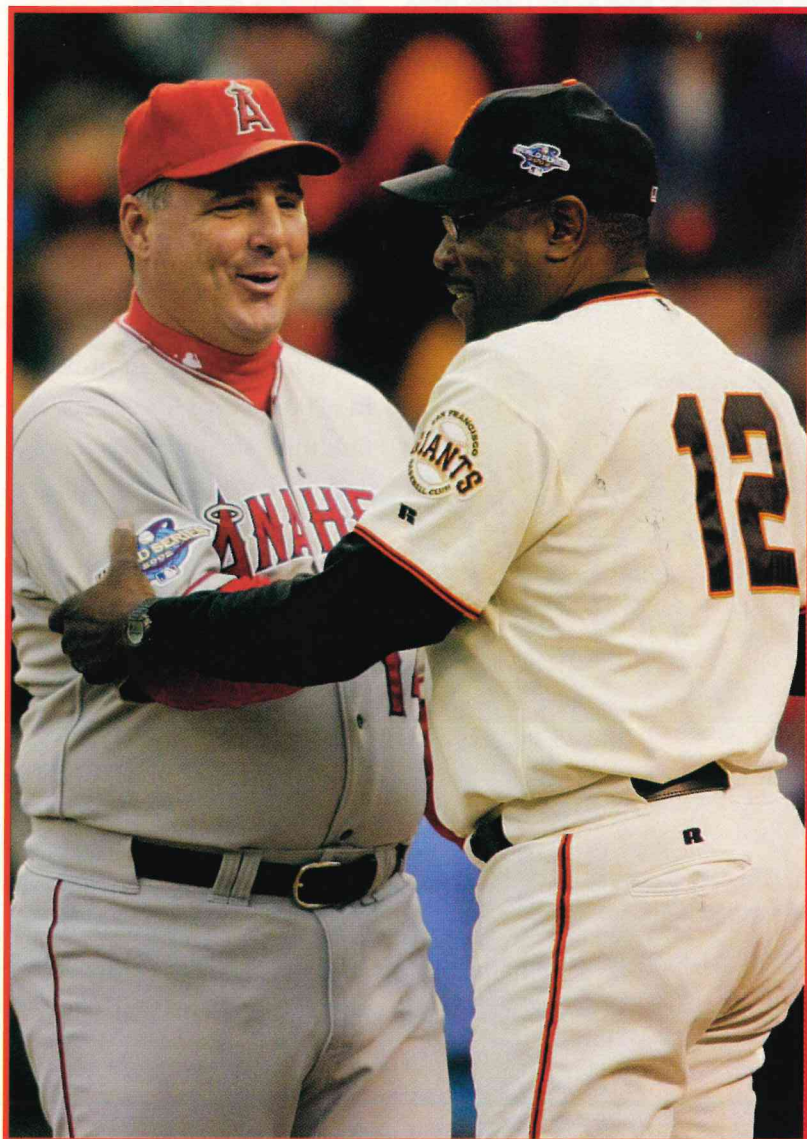

Dusty Baker and Mike Scioscia, managers of the NL Giants and the AL Angels respectively, are no strangers among baseball fans, especially in California. Baker, born in Riverside, CA, in 1949, found his way back to the West Coast as a player after the 1975 season, moving from the Atlanta Braves to the LA Dodgers, where he became a mainstay and crowd favorite until the twilight of his career. He'd spend the rest of his career in his home state, playing a year for the Giants in '84 before moving across the bay to the Oakland A's for two seasons before retiring. Scioscia, born in Upper Darby, PA, would come up with the Dodgers as a 21-year-old rookie in 1980, and feel so at home in Dodger blue that he'd spend his entire career playing for Tommy Lasorda and Co.

Mike Scioscia landed his first managerial job with the Anaheim Angels, and led the struggling club to respectable finishes in 2000 and 2001. Unlike Baker, who jumped in as a manager with a talented San Francisco Giants team in 1993, and enjoyed immediate success with 103 wins and his first of three NL Manager of the Year awards, Scioscia had to sweat a little. But in just his third year with the Angels, Scioscia's hard work has paid off to the tune of a trip to the World Series, and an AL Manager of the Year award of his own.

Baker and Scioscia, of course, were teammates on the 81' Dodgers, which beat the Yankees to become World Champs in six games. Perhaps that created a link between the two men, making it fitting that they would go head to head in both of their first World Series appearances as managers, rather than players. And who would have believed that Baker and Scioscia would lead two California clubs to the World Series, and neither of them the Dodgers. To add to the mystique of this meeting, only the third all-California World Series in baseball history, both the Angels and the Dodgers made it to the big dance as Wild Card Cinderellas, another first, and a testament to the excellent leadership of both men.

There were so many reasons why the Giants and Angels were a special matchup in the year 2002, and their managers were as big a factor as anything else. One has to imagine this isn't the last time these two former players and top flight managers' paths will cross—not by a long-shot. But you have to wonder, whether you are an Angels fan, or especially a Giants fan, how a former Dodger ended up leading your team to baseball's grandest stage?

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

Adam Kennedy did everything his team asked of him in 2002, providing solid fielding, stealing 17 bases and hitting for a career high .280 batting average. Not everyone on a winning team can be a star, but every team needs guys like Kennedy, especially when they produce in the post season. It was an unlikely Kennedy that provided the power against the Twins in the ALCS, proving once again that you need a hero to win in the playoffs, and you never know who that guy is going to be.

ADAM KENNEDY #2 2B

Full name: Adam Thomas Kennedy

Born: 01/10/76

Birthplace: Riverside, CA

Height: 6'1"

Weight: 190

Position: 2B

Bats: Left

Throws: Right

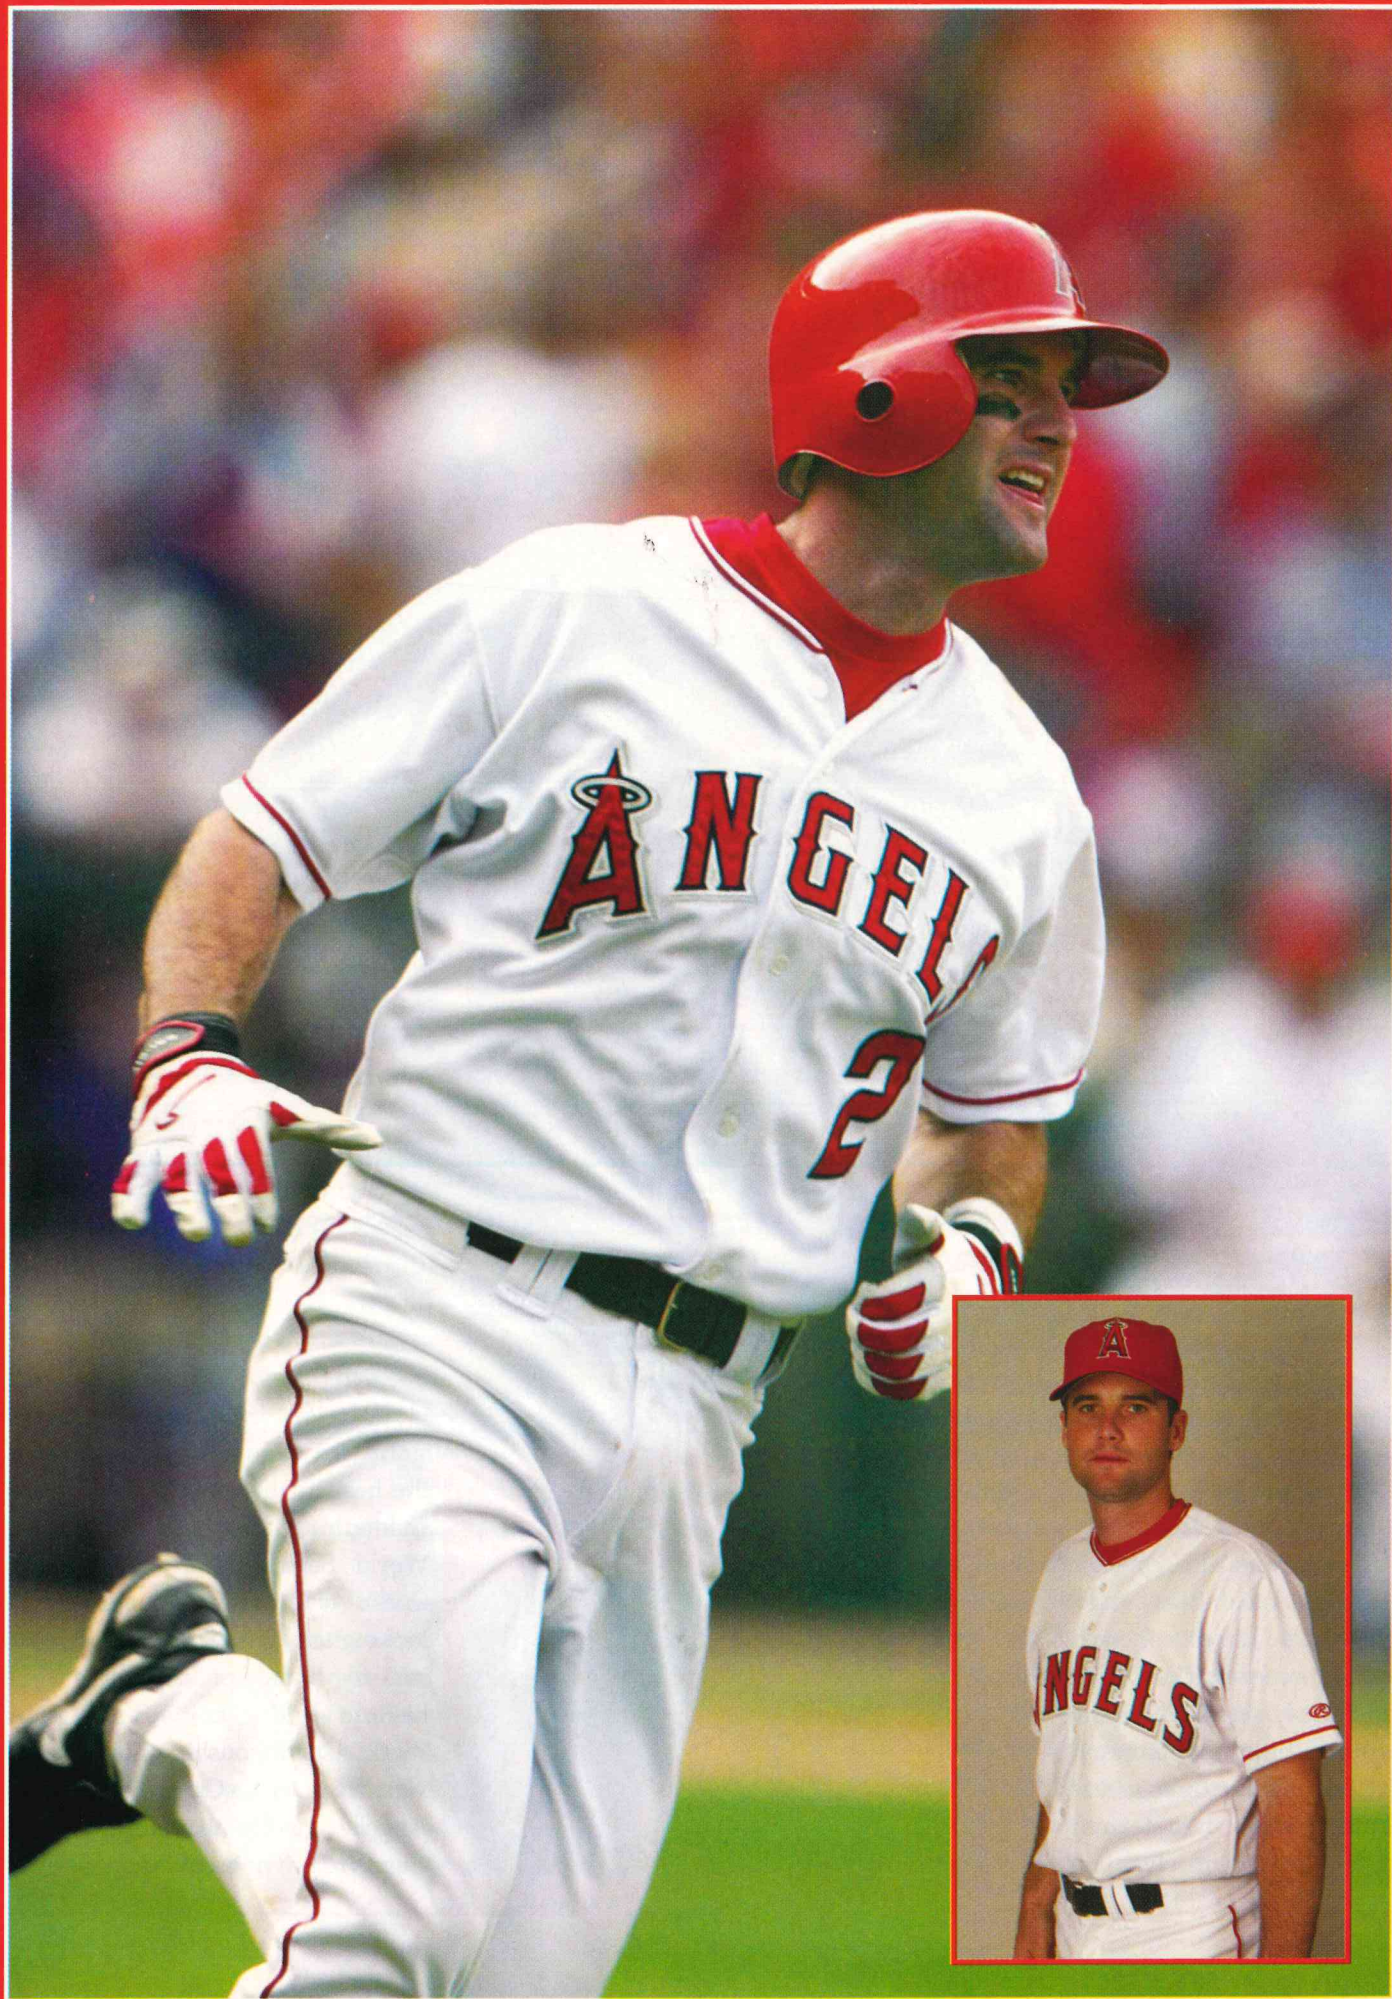

MLB Debut: 08/21/99

2002 Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
144	474	65	148	32	6	7	52	213	19	80	17	.449	.312

Career Hitting Stats:

G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	RBI	TB	BB	SO	SB	SLG	AVG
470	1652	207	462	100	21	23	180	673	77	232	51	.407	.280

A SERIES TO REMEMBER

Never-Say-Die Angels On Top Of The World

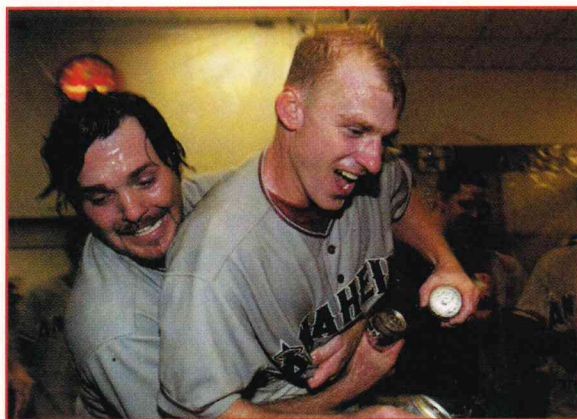

In a sport gasping for a breath of fresh air, the Giants and the Angels blew into town this October like a cool refreshing breeze. The 2002 World Series had a little bit of everything, but most importantly there was some great baseball between two teams eager to prove themselves as

ANAHEIM ANGELS WIN 4-3 OVER SAN FRANCISCO GIANTS

GAME 1: San Francisco 4, Anaheim 3
GAME 2: Anaheim 11, San Francisco 10
GAME 3: Anaheim 10, San Francisco 4
GAME 4: San Francisco 4, Anaheim 3
GAME 5: San Francisco 16, Anaheim 4
GAME 6: Anaheim 6, San Francisco 5
GAME 7: Anaheim 4, San Francisco 1

the best in the world. The Giants, hungry for their first World Series as a West Coast team, the Angels looking to write themselves into the annals of baseball history with their first World Championship. The American League Champion Angels welcomed the Giants to town for a Wild-West showdown for the Championship of the World.

Game 1 of the 2002 World Series featured a fine pitching matchup between Jarrod Washburn for the Angels and Jason Schmidt for San Fran. The Giants quieted the crowd in the second inning with a Barry Bonds homer that came in his first career World Series at bat, followed by a Reggie Sanders blast to make it 2-1. The Angels' Troy Glaus would put his team on the board as he cut the lead to one with a solo shot in the bottom of the inning. As the game grew increasingly tense in the Anaheim dugout, the Giants pushed their lead to 3 on a JT Snow two run shot to center, scoring Reggie Sanders, and chasing Washburn out of the game. The Angels would respond once again in the bottom of the inning on the strength of a second home run off the bat of Glaus, as well as an RBI single by Adam Kennedy, but the rally fell short by a run and the Giants bullpen held on for a close win on the road.

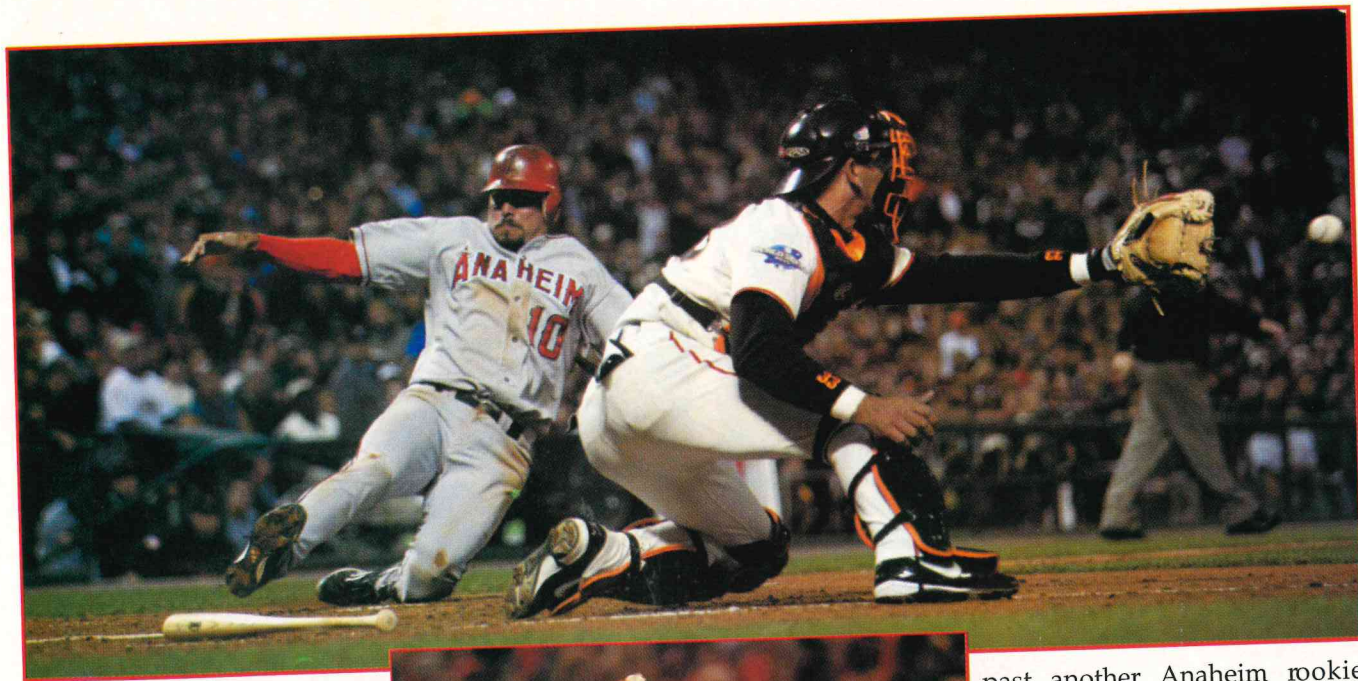

Going into Game 2 at Edison Field the Angels were desperate for a win. Anaheim came out strong and hung five first inning runs on Russ Ortiz, only to give four back the next inning. It was a seesaw battle the whole way through, with the Angels adding to their lead in the bottom of the second, making it 7-4, but allowing the Giants back in the game with a run in the third and four more in the fifth. Both teams went to their bullpen's early, but struggled to control the bleeding, with the Angels once again playing catchup ball, tallying in the bottom of the fifth and sixth to bring the game to a 9-9 tie. Balls were flying out of the park in Anaheim for the Giants, but it was Tim Salmon, with a second inning homer and a game winning shot in the eighth that put the Angels over the top. With the score 11-9 going into the ninth and Troy Percival on the mound the Angels decided to test Barry Bonds, and the slugger drove a home run that they'll be talking about forever. No matter how far Bonds' homer traveled it only counted for one run and the scoring ended at 11-10. The Angels and Giants headed North for Game 3 with the series knotted at one.

The Angels were greeted by a wild scene at Pac-Bell for Game 3, as the fans of San Francisco were ready to celebrate the World Series coming to town. The excitement of the crowd soon turned into a frantic celebration as the Giants jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first, and Kenny Lofton scored on a Benito Santiago ground out. Giants pitcher Livan Hernandez was only able to hold the lead into the third however, when the bats of the Troy Glaus and Scott Spiezio pushed four past another Anaheim rookie hurler, John Lackey, while hoping for a good start from Kirk Rueter. It was Lackey who would get off to a good start and hold the Giants scoreless through four, while his club went ahead by one in the second and two more in the third on a shot by Troy Glaus. The Giants, feeling truly desperate for the first time in the series, rallied to tie the game in the last of the fifth and held the Angels bats silent the rest of the way. It was runs across the plate. In the fourth, the Angels chased Hernandez, putting another four runs on the score board and the game out of reach. The starting pitching, with Ramon Ortiz going for Anaheim, did an adequate job. But it was the bullpen of the Angels that sealed the deal, with the rookie, Rodriguez, and Troy Percival, closing the door on a 10-4 rout that left the Giants shaking their heads.

Going into Game 4 the Angels 20-year-old relief pitcher Francisco Rodriguez had amassed an amazing five wins through his first journey through the playoffs without a loss, but his luck was about to change. But first the Giants would have to get now supposed to be time for the talented K-Rod of the Angels to shine, but instead, David Bell foiled his perfect record when his single to center scored JT Snow. Nen and the Angels finished off the game and the series was tied once again.

Game 5 brought a return to the fireworks from earlier in the series as the Giants powered their way to a 16-4 win on the strength of two Jeff Kent home runs and four RBIs. But all of the Giants got into the act as they destroyed Jarrod Washburn's chance at redemption and put the game out of reach with ten runs in the last three innings. The Giants had seized back command of Anaheim offense set to wearing down Livan Hernandez, and ran him out of the game in the third with four runs. With John Lackey pitching like an old pro, the Angels marched past the halfway point of the game with a 4-1 lead. Unable to add to the lead the Angels put their faith in their pitching. They held the Giants off until the ninth, and tossed the ball to their fabulous closer Troy Percival, asking the best in the sport to bring them home. Trouble brewed as the Giants were able to getting some-the World Series with the action shifting back to Anaheim were the final two games were scheduled to be played.

There have been many memorable Game 6's in World Series play, and the Giants and Angels would supply yet another one in 2002. The Giants, revved up with the prospect of winning their first Championship since the 50s, ran out to a five run lead, and held the Angels at bay going into the seventh inning. But once the Angels bats woke up, the bullpen for San Francisco found it impossible to stop them. With two on and one out in the seventh an unlikely, but very productive, hero stepped up to the plate and sent the home crowd into delirium with one of the great clutch homer's in the history of the World Series. Scott Spiezio's three run blast got his team back in the game, and the next inning for the Angels made the Series something special in the eyes of baseball fans. With the score at 5-3, Rob Nen and the Giants were unable to get the outs they needed to close out Game 6 and take the crown, and the Angels, behind the hitting of Troy Glaus, got on top of the Giants by a score of 6-5, and sent Troy Percival to the mound in the ninth for the save. The Giants, along with the rest of the world, were stunned, as the Angels showed their cat-like ability to always land on their feet, forcing a Game 7 at home.

The Giants, able to regroup after their painful Game 6 collapse, grabbed the lead early in Game 7, but the Angels and their fans had seen deeper holes than that, and didn't panic for a second. Instead, the thing started. JT Snow singled to right. Goodwin reaches base on a fielders choice that erases Snow. Percival walks David Bell and strikes out Tsuyoshi Shinjo. Up steps Kenny Lofton, the hero of the NLCS for the Giants, but Percival beats him with his best stuff and forces a pop out to center and the game is over. The Angels win! The Angels, for the first time in their history, are World Champions.

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

Scott Spiezio began to come into his own in 2002 for the Angels, establishing career highs in a number of offensive categories, and playing a steady first base to anchor the Anaheim defense. Like the rest of the Angels, Spiezio got hot in October, leaving no rest for weary opposing pitchers worn down by the likes of Glaus, Anderson and Salmon.

Scott Spiezio

Full Name: Scott Edward Spiezio

Born: 09/21/72

Birthplace: Joliet, IL

Height: 6'2"

Weight: 225

Position: 1B

Bats: Switch Hitter

Throws: Right

College: Illinois

MLB Debut: 09/14/96

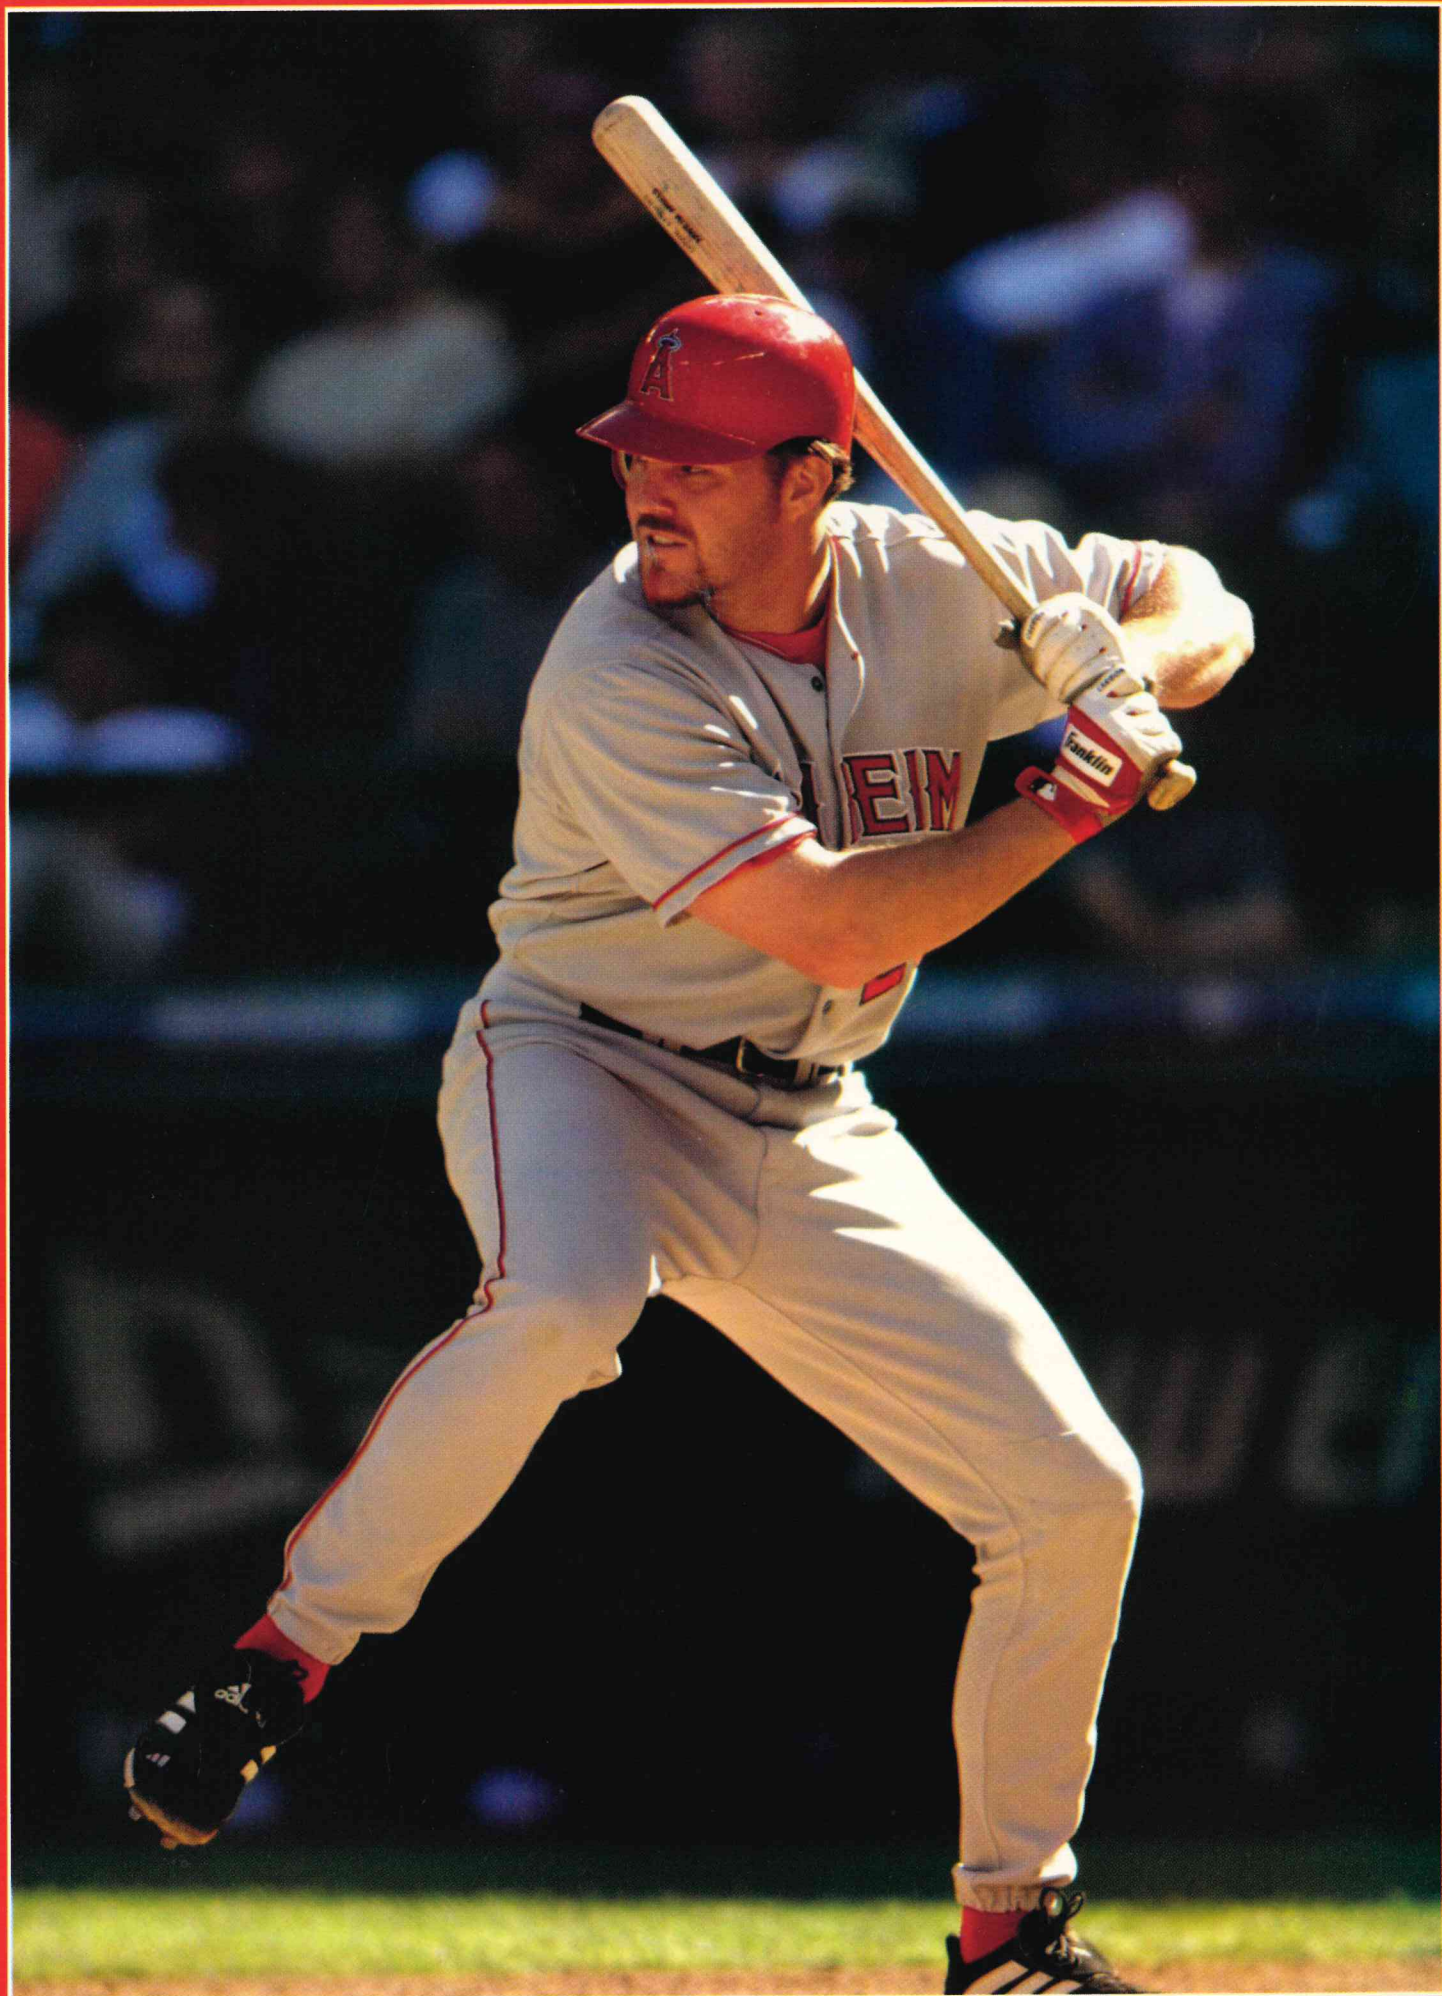

2002 HITTING STATS

G	AB	R	H	HR	RBI	BB	SO	SB	2B	3B	SB	SLG	AVG
153	491	80	140	12	82	67	52	6	34	2	6	.436	.285

CAREER STATS

774	2465	333	641	75	341	262	344	22	147	13	22	.422	.260
-----	------	-----	-----	----	-----	-----	-----	----	-----	----	----	------	------

PLAYER PROFILES 2002

Anaheim ANGELS

Player Profile:

Brad Fullmer's short career has led him from the National League and 1B to the American League as a DH with the Blue Jays and finally to the Anaheim Angels. 2002 saw Fullmer grab a bat for the Angels, as well as jump back on the bag in close to 30 games, making him a valuable piece of the puzzle for the World Champs. Fullmer's lefty bat was huge for the Angles all year long, but especially in the playoffs, where he provided a tough out for the Giants' pitching. Teams on a championship run like the Angles need to make all the right moves, and the acquisition of Fullmer surely falls under that category for Anaheim.

Brad Fullmer #20 DH

Full Name: Bradley Ryan Fullmer

Born: 01/17/75

Birthplace: Chatsworth, CA

Height: 6'0"

Weight: 215

Position: DH

Bats: Left

Throws: Right

MLB Debut: 09/02/97

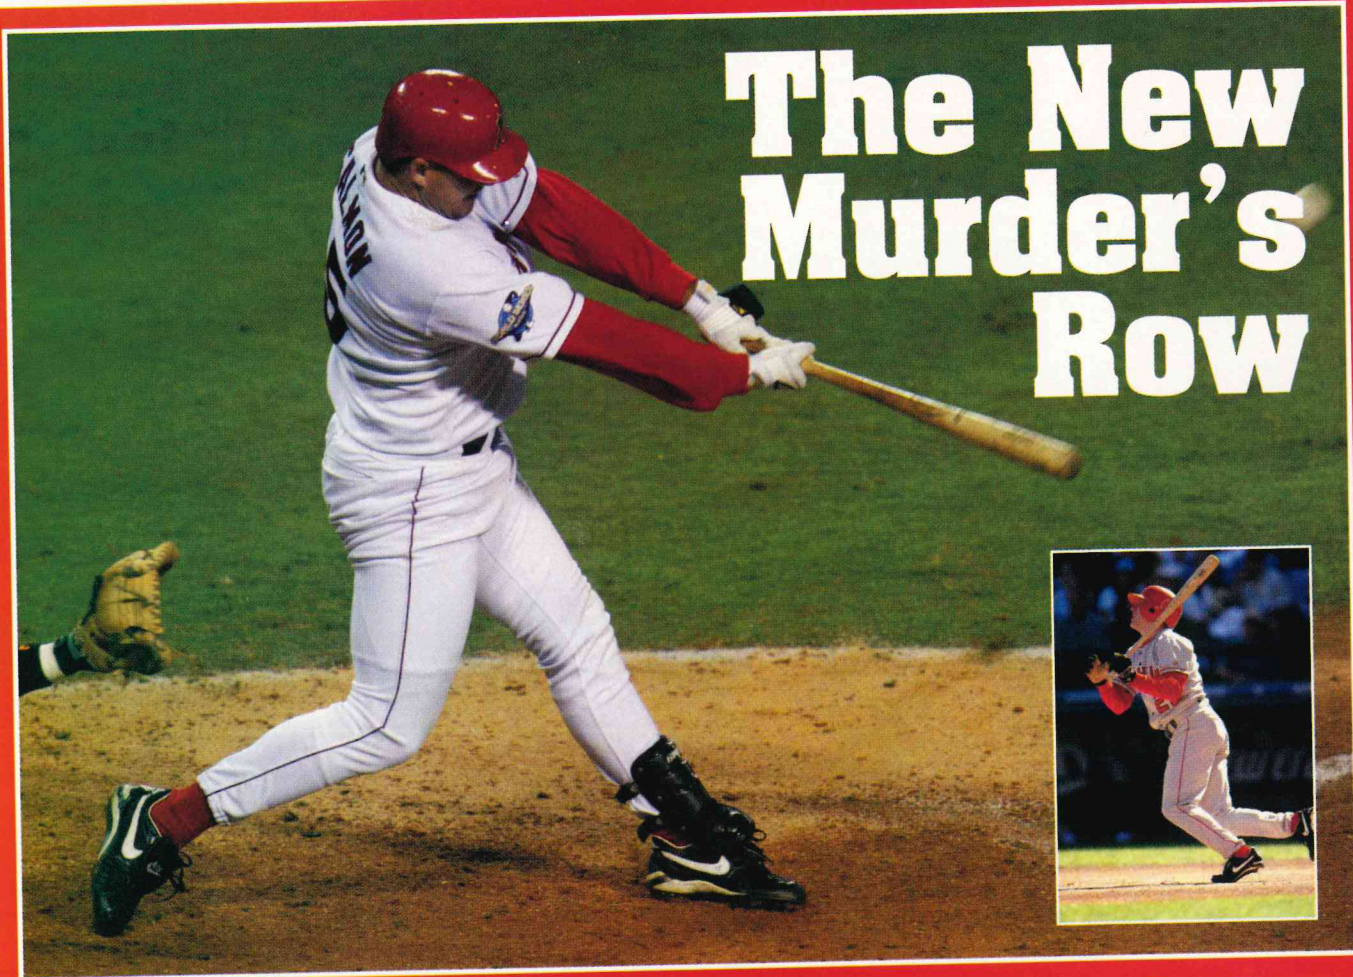

2002 HITTING STATS

G	AB	R	H	HR	RBI	BB	SO	SB	2B	3B	SB	SLG	AVG
129	429	75	124	19	59	31	44	10	35	6	10	.531	.289

CAREER STATS

667	2325	322	655	94	374	162	312	26	175	13	26	.489	.282
-----	------	-----	-----	----	-----	-----	-----	----	-----	----	----	------	------

The New Murder's Row

Angels Low-key Lineup Have Opposing Pitchers Seeing Stars

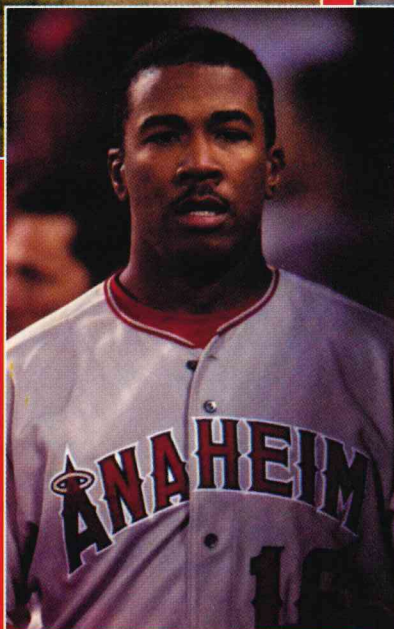

There are no "Mega-stars" in the Anaheim Angels lineup. Well, at least not until this past World Series. There's no Ruth, Gehrig, Lezzeri or Combs. You can't dial "M" for murder and conjure up the likes of Mantle and Marris, or trot Barry Bonds up to the plate for that matter. All you have if you are the Angels are guys like Eckstein, Spiezio, Salmon and Glaus. You have guys like the tough lefty, Brad Fullmer, keeping pitchers honest late in the lineup; Adam Kennedy who experienced a power surge this in the playoffs this year.

The Yankees learned quickly that they couldn't play games with a lineup like the Angels throw at you. And it's saying a lot when you have the horses to run with the likes of Bernie Williams, Jason Giambi and Derek Jeter. But right about now they are saying the same thing about Glaus, Salmon and Anderson. The Twins could tell you all about it if they could find the words. The last time they were on a baseball diamond with the Angels they were being blown out in the ALCS. And still fresh in the memories of Dusty Baker and the San Francisco Giants are the images of the buzz-saw lineup they weren't able to suppress in the World Series. It's one thing to pitch around one giant bat, past post-season and the anti-star, Garret Anderson, who simply and quietly gets the job of a super-star done. And you know what? That's all you need to have a great baseball team. That's all you need to win the World Series. And don't think the Angels' lineup doesn't scare the pants off of opposing teams, especially those they tore through with record breaking offensive production but to pitch around a whole team?! And there lies the paradox in facing the 2002 Angels based on the fact that an entire team, built basically from scratch—and feeding off of each other and the excitement of their fans—could all become burning, out-of-control hot at the right time, and blaze their way through the playoffs.

So are the Angels the “New” Murder’s Row? Maybe not. Murder seems just too ominous for this group of good guys that play hard and hit harder. Maybe naming them at all would be a disservice to their uniqueness, and add too little to the type of balance and tenacity they brought to the plate each and every at bat. Perhaps we should simply remember them as they are, and feel proud when we say years from now, “The Angels sure had a great team that year.”

WORLD SERIES RESULTS

Year	Results	MVP
2001	Arizona 4, NY Yankees 3	Schilling/Johnson
2000	NY Yankees 4, NY Mets 1	Derek Jeter
1999	NY Yankees 4, Atlanta 0	Mariano Rivera
1998	NY Yankees 4, San Diego 0	Scott Brosius
1997	Florida 4, Cleveland 3	Livan Hernandez
1996	NY Yankees 4, Atlanta 2	John Wetteland
1995	Atlanta 4, Cleveland 2	Tom Glavine
1994	Not Held	N/A
1993	Toronto 4, Philadelphia 2	Paul Molitor
1992	Toronto 4, Atlanta 2	Pat Borders
1991	Minnesota 4, Atlanta 3	Jack Morris
1990	Cincinnati 4, Oakland 0	Jose Rijo
1989	Oakland 4, San Francisco 0	Dave Stewart
1988	Los Angeles 4, Oakland 1	Orel Hershisier
1987	Minnesota 4, St. Louis 3	Frank Viola
1986	NY Mets 4, Boston 3	Ray Knight
1985	Kansas City 4, St. Louis 3	Bret Saberhagen
1984	Detroit 4, San Diego 1	Alan Trammell
1983	Baltimore 4, Philadelphia 1	Rick Dempsey
1982	St. Louis 4, Milwaukee 3	Darrell Porter
1981	Los Angeles 4, NY Yankees 2	Guerrero/Cey/Yeager
1980	Philadelphia 4, Kansas City 2	Mike Schmidt
1979	Pittsburgh 4, Baltimore 3	Willie Stargell
1978	NY Yankees 4, Los Angeles 2	Bucky Dent

Year	Results	MVP
1977	NY Yankees 4, Los Angeles 2	Reggie Jackson
1976	Cincinnati 4, NY Yankees 0	Johnny Bench
1975	Cincinnati 4, Boston 3	Pete Rose
1974	Oakland 4, Los Angeles 1	Rollie Fingers
1973	Oakland 4, NY Mets 3	Reggie Jackson
1972	Oakland 4, Cincinnati 3	Gene Tenace
1971	Pittsburgh 4, Baltimore 3	Roberto Clemente
1970	Baltimore 4, Cincinnati 1	Brooks Robinson
1969	NY Mets 4, Baltimore 1	Donn Clendenon
1968	Detroit 4, St. Louis 3	Mickey Lolich
1967	St. Louis 4, Boston 3	Bob Gibson
1966	Baltimore 4, Los Angeles 0	Frank Robinson
1965	Los Angeles 4, Minnesota 3	Sandy Koufax
1964	St. Louis 4, NY Yankees 3	Bob Gibson
1963	Los Angeles 4, NY Yankees 0	Sandy Koufax
1962	NY Yankees 4, San Francisco 3	Ralph Terry
1961	NY Yankees 4, Cincinnati 1	Whitey Ford
1960	Pittsburgh 4, NY Yankees 3	Bobby Richardson
1959	Los Angeles 4, Ch White Sox 2	Larry Sherry
1958	NY Yankees 4, Milw. Braves 3	Bob Turley
1957	Milw. Braves 4, NY Yankees 3	Lew Burdette
1956	NY Yankees 4, Brooklyn 3	Don Larsen
1955	Brooklyn 4, NY Yankees 3	* Johnny Podres

* First MVP named in 1955

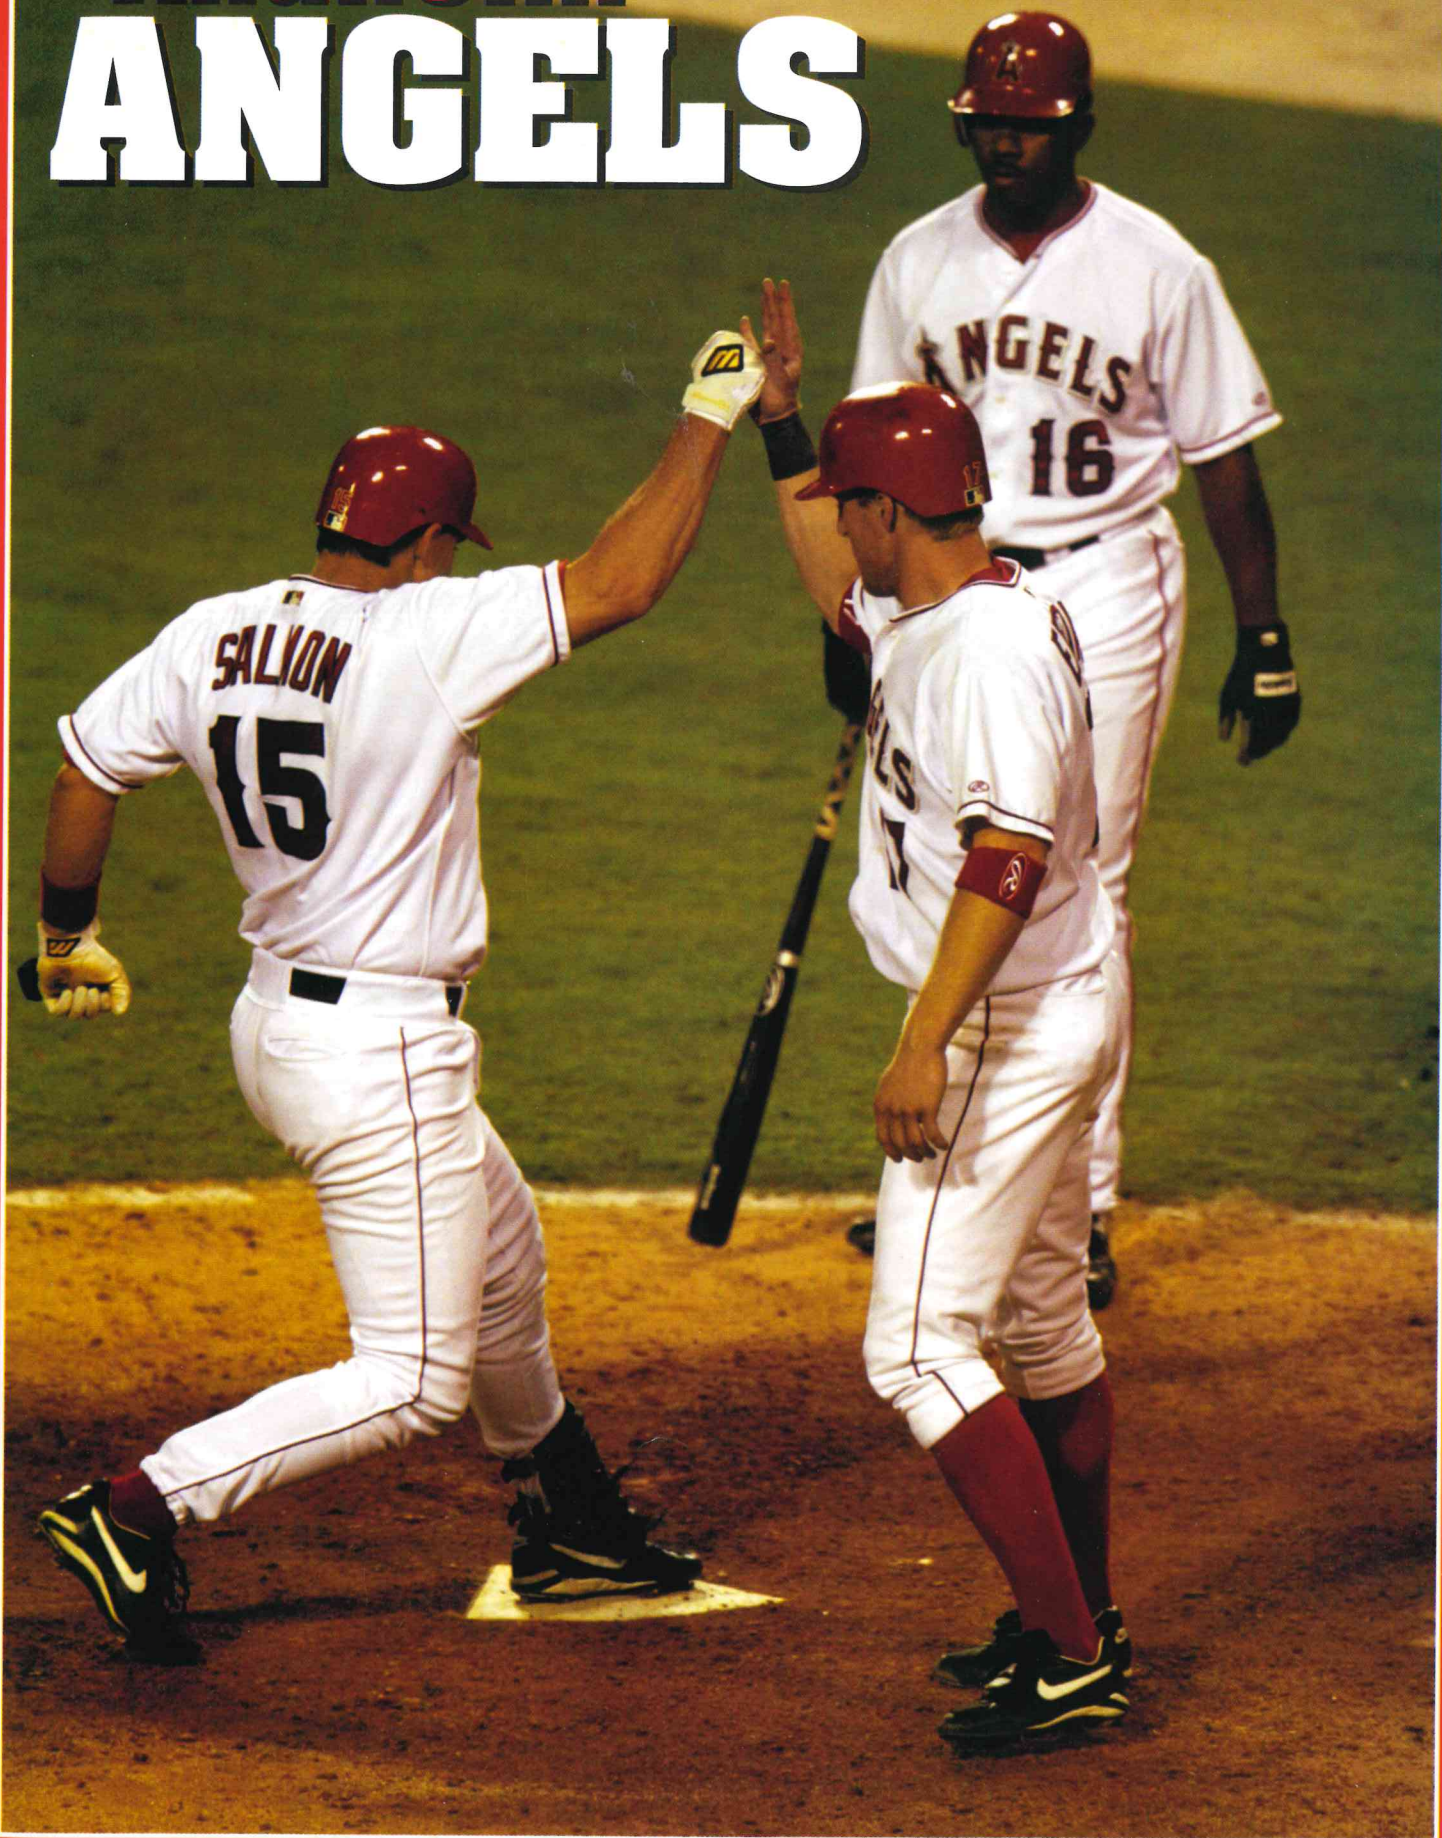

Year	Results
1954	NY Giants 4, Cleveland 0
1953	NY Yankees 4, Brooklyn 2
1952	NY Yankees 4, Brooklyn 3
1951	NY Yankees 4, NY Giants 2
1950	NY Yankees 4, Philadelphia 0
1949	NY Yankees 4, Brooklyn 1
1948	Cleveland 4, Boston Braves 2
1947	NY Yankees 4, Brooklyn 3
1946	St. Louis 4, Boston Red Sox 3
1945	Detroit 4, Chicago Cubs 3
1944	St. Louis Cardinals 4, St. Louis Browns 2
1943	NY Yankees 4, St. Louis Cardinals 1
1942	St. Louis Cardinals 4, NY Yankees 1
1941	NY Yankees 4, Brooklyn 1
1940	Cincinnati 4, Detroit 3
1939	NY Yankees 4, Cincinnati 0
1938	NY Yankees 4, Chicago Cubs 0
1937	NY Yankees 4, NY Giants 1
1936	NY Yankees 4, NY Giants 2
1935	Detroit 4, Chicago Cubs 2
1934	St. Louis Cardinals 4, Detroit 3
1933	NY Giants 4, Washington 1
1932	NY Yankees 4, Chicago Cubs 0
1931	St. Louis Cardinals 4, Philadelphia A's 3
1930	Philadelphia A's 4, St. Louis Cardinals 2
1929	Philadelphia A's 4, Chicago Cubs 1

Year	Results
1928	NY Yankees 4, St. Louis Cardinals 0
1927	NY Yankees 4, Pittsburgh 0
1926	St. Louis Cardinals 4, NY Yankees 3
1925	Pittsburgh 4, Washington 3
1924	Washington 4, NY Giants 3
1923	NY Yankees 4, NY Giants 2
1922	NY Giants 4, NY Yankees 0 (one tie)
1921	NY Giants 5, NY Yankees 3
1920	Cleveland 5, Brooklyn 2
1919	Cincinnati 5, Chicago White Sox 3
1918	Boston Red Sox 4, Chicago Cubs 2
1917	Chicago White Sox 4, NY Giants 2
1916	Boston Red Sox 4, Brooklyn 1
1915	Boston Red Sox 4, Philadelphia Phillies 1
1914	Boston Braves 4, Philadelphia A's 0
1913	Philadelphia A's 4, NY Giants 1
1912	Boston Red Sox 4, NY Giants 3 (one tie)
1911	Philadelphia A's 4, NY Giants 2
1910	Philadelphia A's 4, Chicago Cubs 1
1909	Pittsburgh 4, Detroit 3
1908	Chicago Cubs 4, Detroit 1
1907	Chicago Cubs 4, Detroit 0 (one tie)
1906	Chicago White Sox 4, Chicago Cubs 2
1905	NY Giants 4, Philadelphia A's 1
1904	Not held
1903	Boston Red Sox 5, Pittsburgh 3

Darin Erstad

Anaheim ANGELS

Anaheim ANGELS

2002 WORLD SERIES CHAMPIONS

